Fire Threatens Irvine Forge Plant

Ordnance Section Of War Factory Is Swept by Bad Blaze

Youngsville and Warren Fire Departments Aid Factory Firemen In Battling Flames

LOSS IN THOUSANDS

Fire starting Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock in one of the machine shops of the National Forge and Ordnance Company, at Irvine, for a time threatened the entire plant. The fire started through the bursting of a high pressure oil line and sprayed the oil over electric motors which ignited it. The fire spread with great rapidity and the fire fighting forces of the company went into action. Calls were immediately made for the Youngsville and Warren departments and both responded.

The Warren department sent Engine Company No. 2 and the emergency truck with Chief Douglas Kropf and Hoseman Moore. The Youngsville Company turned out with a truck and crew of men. Smoke masks were taken from the Warren Department but they were not needed.

When the firemen arrived the flames were roaring and the fire raged most serious. Seven lines of hose were put into play and the pumps of Warren and Youngsville were both pressed into play. The Irvine Company some time ago installed a new high pressure water system and it came into full use yesterday there being plenty of water for use in battling the flames.

The interior of the burning structure was smoke filled for a time but this gradually cleared and the firemen moved in getting to the base of the flames. The structure was a new addition recently erected.

After about an hour's hard work the flames were knocked down but the firemen remained on the job until about 8 o'clock cooling down the ruins.

Inquiry of plant officials elicited the information that the work of clearing up the debris was started immediately and that the work done in this department has been transferred to another department so that a minimum of delay in turning out the product of the company will be experienced. The work of making plans for the rebuilding of the burned structure was started last night and it will be carried forward with all speed.

Officials of the company were proud in their praise of the work done by the men in combatting the fire which was one of the most stubborn ever experienced at the Irvine plant. The corps of fire fighters at the plant moved with quickness and precision and the men and equipment from Youngsville and Warren afforded splendid service and the officials are most grateful for the job accomplished.

Smoke from the fire could be seen in Warren as it rolled up over the hills between this city and Irvine. (Turn to Page Seven)

SPEED RECORD?

Chicago—Twenty minutes after Mrs. Isabella F. Pierson of Rockland, Ill., a native of Scotland, obtained United States citizenship, she was sworn into the WAVES. Her husband, John, is in the army, stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, this county's quota for War Bonds to buy ambulance planes was announced as $40,000. The campaign having been opened on November 11 and to continue through December 16.

It will be recalled that in the county's submarine campaign conducted by the Pennsylvania American Legion Auxiliary last year, Warren county's quota was set for $146,30 and was exceeded by $248,70 for a grand total of $395,000.

Progress was also reported at the meeting on the coupon collection, which is used to further purchase of club mobile units for overseas service.

BULLETINS

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—Members of the New York Yankees baseball club, winners of the 1943 World Series, received $204,962.41 and the defeated St. Louis Cardinals $136,641.61 as their share of the total receipts of the five game series this fall, Commissioner K. M. Landis announced today.

Algiers, Nov. 17.—(P)—A "satisfactory" conference with the French committee of National Liberation and another meeting with high Allied officers, Gen. Henri Giraud withdrew today, for a period of at least two weeks, his resignation as commander-in-chief of French armed forces.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, met with coal operators today to negotiate for a wage agreement under which miners would work after the government returns the mines to their owners. A large group of operators sat down around a conference table at the interior department with Lewis and a committee of UMW officials.

Chungking, Nov. 17.—(P)—Liberator bombers of the U. S. 14th air force bombed shipping and the Kowloon dock area at Hongkong Monday night, scoring many hits on the target, a communiqué from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

(The Tokyo radio reported yesterday that Hongkong had been bombed the previous night but sought to minimize the results.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—In an effort to slow current heavy marketing of hogs, the War Food Administration today lifted for 90 days the restrictions on the number of pounds of home-slaughtered pork and lard that may be sold or given to persons not living on the farmer's property.

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—(P)—An army doctor declared today the British reportedly were contemplating a plan to allow convalescent soldiers to leave hospitals for short periods daily to work in war industries, but Army Surgeon General Norman I. Kirk said "that isn't a part of our prescription" for American soldiers.

London, Nov. 17.—(P)—Reuters, in a Zurich dispatch, said today that Bulgarian Foreign Minister Shishmanov had flown to Budapest to discuss the possibilities of joint peace action with Hungary.

SMOKING IN CHAIR ENDS IN HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—(P)—Mrs. Rose Gannon, 25, wife of a sailor and mother of three small children, was burned critically today when she dozed off in a chair while smoking a cigarette, after returning from work on a night shift in a war plant. She was taken to a hospital after running several blocks to the home of relatives.

night's meeting was announcement by Mrs. Melvin Johnson of the following committee heads for the new year: Membership, Mrs. K. W. Davis and Mrs. Larry Krespan; rehabilitation, Mrs. R. F. Hildum; Mrs. Clarence Agren; child welfare, Mrs. H. J. Fleckenstein and Mrs. Theodore Fox; Americanism, Mrs. F. L. PROJECT FOR FLOOD CONTROL FINISHED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17.—(P)—Only a few finishing touches remain to be done and the $8,000,000 government project to remove the flood menace from off-flooded Johnstown will be complete.

Col. Gilbert B. Van Wilkes, in charge of the district office of the U. S. Army engineers, announced last night he plans to make a final inspection tour of the channel improvement project "soon."

The project, authorized after the disastrous St. Patrick's Day inundation of 1936, is designed to high-bail any flood waters past the area.

In just one year the Red Army has surged back from Stalingrad and the Caucasus to a point half-way toward the goal of Berlin. With large numbers of German troops knocked out of the fighting, the remaining half of the battle may be easier, but Nazi defense lines within Poland and Germany proper are shorter and stiffer.

SUBSIDIES ARE LICKED SAY SOME LEADERS

Battle on Rollbacks Has Brought Consumers and Producers Into Headlong Collisions

PRICES TO RISE

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Outnumbered and outmaneuvered, supporters of the administration's food subsidy program conceded privately today that they are licked in the house, but counted on mustering sufficient strength to sustain an anticipated veto.

The already hot argument over the price rollback method of combating inflation will roll to an even higher pitch when the house begins two days of general debate tomorrow on a double-barreled bill to extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation and to outlaw consumer subsidies.

The battle over the subsidy question drew representatives from consumer and producer areas into headlong collision, with both groups maintaining that the stand taken by the other will release the tide of wartime inflation.

Opposed to the subsidy program and determined to permit prices of agriculture products to rise to what they term "their natural level at the market place" were nearly all of the Republicans plus a substantial bloc of Democratic lawmakers from farm states.

On the other side were administration stalwarts and legislators from districts "industrial and urban areas." They contend that increased food prices will force higher wages and shatter the "hold-the-line" program.

nik was the theme broadcast over the radio last night by Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who (Turn to Page Seven)

Pittsburgh Has Two Alarm Fire

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17.—(P)—Damage estimated by Fire Chief William H. Davis at $15,000 was caused last night by a three-alarm fire that destroyed a large stock of rationed foods in the Hermes Importing Company building.

Nicholas Hermes, one of the proprietors, said $60,000 worth of food, including imported olive oils and cheese, was in the three-story brick building. Firemen saved a considerable portion of the stock. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Fall of Rabaul Nearing As Loss of Jap Ships Mounts

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—A climax in the campaign for Rabaul, once powerful Japanese base in the South Pacific, appeared near today—dangerously near for the enemy.

This was emphasized by a naval spokesman who told of mounting damage to Japanese ships and planes in the Rabaul area, and asserted:

"The Japanese have suffered enough damage to important fleet units to give them cause for serious consideration of abandoning the base as too hot to handle."

His statement, made after he reported the destruction of 102 enemy planes in the last six days, and the battering of surface units in the Rabaul area, tied in closely with a previous assertion by Secretary of the Navy Knox that there is a possibility the Japanese might in time evacuate Rabaul.

For weeks Allied bombers have hammered incessantly at the enemy stronghold on New Britain island northwest of the Solomons.

They have sent ship after ship to the bottom of the vast harbor, and some of those wrecks undoubtedly are hampering the movement of enemy reinforcements and supplies.

GOP Women Raid Test In Convention The State Stirs Action Here

State President Says They Were First to Recognize Better Relation Need

URGE WOMEN'S VOTE ON U. S. ARMY ORDER

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—(P)—The Pennsylvania council of Republican Women was the first in the nation to "help build better international relations by sponsoring successfully a so-called peace resolution." Mrs. John Y. Huber of Haverford, council president and uncontested nominee for a second term, today told delegates to the council's 21st convention.

Through 11 state-wide conferences, Mrs. Huber said in her pre-convention message, "we fulfilled the purpose of our organization—which is to turn political education into political activity and become leaders in meeting home front problems."

With the 60 per cent vote which women are expected to cast in the 1944 presidential election as their objective, the Republican women were told last night by Mrs. George R. Lamade of Williamsport, a vice-president, that Pennsylvania's women comprise "a powerful potential group in the political picture—if they will assume responsibility."

Emphasizing the militant spirit of the convention in seeking further representation in government for women, Helen Elizabeth Brown, president of the women's bar association of Baltimore, told delegates that Republican women "ought to demand that a woman be nominated for the vice-presidency."

"Our democratic form of government lacks the benefit of the balance and wisdom that women can bring to it," she said. "Not one woman had a voice in bringing about this war or any event leading up to it, yet women and their children are paying the penalty."

It's Legal To Peek In Raid

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—(P)—It's perfectly legal to go out in your back yard during a real or practice air raid to peer into the sky, the state defense council said today—but it's definitely not the wise thing to do.

Clarifying a regulation headed "pedestrians" which says all persons except authorized workers must take shelter when the raid signal sounds, Director Ralph Cooper Hutchinson explained:

"Commanders, wardens and auxiliary police will not consider persons on their own premises to be pedestrians. Wardens and auxiliary police will advise persons outside of shelter, while on private premises, to take shelter, but will in no case compel them to do so."

VOTE FUNDS FOR LIQUOR INVESTIGATION

Search Will Discover Where Good Old Time Supply Has Gone and When It Will Return

SAID TO BE RACKET

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Voted $10,000 for an investigation of the current liquor situation, a senate subcommittee organized today to determine where the old familiar high-octane brands have gone and when they'll be back.

The curious formulae of some of the new or victory model goggle-waters likewise will come under senatorial scrutiny.

Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.) accepting assignment on the five-man committee, expressed belief that the distribution and sale of whisky has entered a "racketeering phase." Senator Elmer Horns, whose home town, Medicine Park, Okla., is as dry as the congressional record, went further.

"It's already one of the most vicious rackets in America," he asserted.

"It's already one of the most vicious rackets in America," he asserted.

"Unless some changes are made it will lead to another attempt at national prohibition—on the theory the people can get more and better liquor under prohibition than they can now."

Thomas, who spoke as an individual senator and not as a member of the investigating group, said he had been reliably informed that what little store-bought liquor is now obtainable assays very low in legitimate aged-in-the-wood whiskey.

"It isn't whiskey at all," he said. "It's just a mixture of junk containing as little as 23 percent of real whiskey." The rest just alcohol and some sort of coloring matter.

"Whether or not the Office of Price Administration knows it, they are being handled by some of the liquor interests to the detriment of the public and the benefit of the monopoly."

He contended big distillers and bottlers are preying during wartime.

Seek Slayer of Bear Hunter

Tionesta, Pa., Nov. 17.—(P)—Acting Coroner D. H. Blum said today police authorities are following "several clues" in efforts to locate the man who killed Malcolm Gittins, 34, a hunter of near Pittsburgh, who was slain on the opening day of the bear season.

Blum swore in a coroner's jury to inquire into the death last night and then recessed the hearing "until some time later" after having established the identity of the victim.

Gittins, a truck driver and father of two children, was killed while hunting with five others from Conropolis, Pa. Sheriff J. Bruce Hagerty said James Kruppa, one of the five, told him a man fired twice from about 250 yards away, the second bullet striking Gittins, and then fled.

More than 1,000 hunters in the district were questioned.

WITEK IS IN

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 17.—(P)—Coast Guardsman Richard L. Eucheit, of St. Marys, Pa., has been awarded the Purple Heart in recognition of wounds received during the invasion of North Africa. Busheit, a patient at the Norfolk marine hospital, was strafed by German planes while acting as coxswain of a landing boat. He was severely wounded in the chest, right leg and left ankle.

Leros Capitulates To Nazis After A Heavy Bombarding

Men and Guns Taken When Island Finally Gives In—Russians Surround Gomel With Its Fall Near

COUNTER-ATTACKS ARE LAUNCHED BY HUNS

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

Russian siege guns bombarded outflanked Gomel today and German broadcasts forecast a fresh Nazi retreat from the Dnieper bend where they said a half million Red troops were attacking violently.

The Germans struck heavily and repeatedly at the lower flank of the great Kiev bulge, particularly in the Fastov and Zhitomir sectors, in actions which appeared aimed at protecting the withdrawal of their divisions to the south.

For their part, the Russians in the western Ukraine applied increased pressure from three sides of the railway junction of Korosten where lines from Kiev, Warsaw, Leningrad and Odessa converge. Weather, as well as the Germans, countered the Russian advance.

Around 6,000 Germans fell. Sixty Ukrainian towns were captured. Ten strong points shielding Gomel were reduced. The Germans "sustained tremendous losses in manpower and equipment," the Russians said officially at midnight. Threatened Rumania was said to have completed plans to evacuate Bucharest, the capital, and the Morocco radio said all important documents had been moved to the hinterland.

The Germans finally captured Leros, important Dodecanese island in the Aegean. The Germans said they captured 3,000 British and 5,000 Italian troops and 130 guns.

The island has a fine harbor usable as a naval and submarine base and also airfields. Far removed from nearby Allied bases and airfields, the British Middle East command appear to have gambled against strong German reaction and lost. The recapture of Leros will be more valuable to Germany for propaganda than military purposes, and their victory likely will have its effect upon neutral Turkey.

The garrison capitulated last night after the Germans landed reinforcements and subjected the Allies to "an overwhelming air bombardment," a Cairo communiqué said.

Miserable weather curtailed fighting in central Italy. Americans regained some lost ground north of Venafro.

American bombers soared above the snowstorms to attack airfields in south France near Marseille in the natural invasion avenue formed by the Rhone valley. The targets were Istres Le Tube and Salon. Other U. S. aircraft again attacked Eleusis airbase near Athens and the Yugoslav harbor at Sibinj. Three Allied planes and 13 Germans were shot down.

Flying from Britain, Mosquito bombers attacked western Germany without loss. The flights followed daylight smashes by American Fortresses and Liberators at Norwegian chemical works and a power station at Rjukan and a molybdenum mine at Knaben. The bombers destroyed six Nazi planes; two were lost.

The Hungarian radio said the Mena House Hotel near the Egyptian pyramids had been prepared for an imminent meeting "between Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt." The Daily Mail of London said the heads of the three Allied powers would meet soon.

One immediate topic might be the French quarrels, culminating in the serious disturbances in Lebanon. Gen. Henri Giraud was said to have offered his resignation six times as French commander-in-chief, apparently because Gen. Charles De Gaulle refused his demands for a free hand in military operations and an agreement not to "purge" the army or appoint new generals without his consent.

A naval spokesman at Washington, noting Japan's staggering sea and air losses at and around Rabaul, and the invasion of Bougainville, declared:

Task Force Moves Into Field To Capture New YM Members

Twelve companies of "service men," making up the YMCA "task force" are at work today making initial advances in the drive for 600 new and renewal members, following the opening gun meeting in the "Y" building last night.

The good attendance and the serious interest displayed by the men of the campaign organization last evening promises well for the success of the 1943 "Call to Membership."

Chief-of-Staff W. Howard Alexander presided and expressed in behalf of the board of directors his appreciation of the fine spirit of the Y's friends which has made the campaign organization possible. Rev. Harold C. Warren, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, opened the meeting with prayer.

Chief Aide Ralph H. Wagner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave the "fighters" their ammunition: Instructions, suggestions and information. The distribution and selection of renewal and new prospect cards followed, a job which wound up the evening's program. A special bonus was announced for all renewals turned in at the "Y" office by 6 p. m. Thursday, and these and all others secured at the mid-way point will be reported at a meeting Friday night at 9 p. m.

Three companies were recognized last night for perfect attendance at the opener. They were the teams captained by G. A. Carlson, George S. Frantz and Alan H. Templeton.

THE NEXT STOP WAS NAPLES

The Army engineers were on the job at Pesto, Italy, near Salerno, when Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's invaders landed on Hitler's Fortress Europa. Here you see a pontoon dock, where one of our big landing craft is unloading, laid right to the beach. Some idea of the size of these new landing boats built for invasions such as that of Italy can be made by comparing it with the trucks that have been swarming out of its giant maw. Your War Bond purchases helped to build such landing craft and these trucks.

Company B Desires Recruits to Make Company Full Strength

According to word received from Harrisburg, the 4th Regiment of the Pennsylvania State Guards will be officially set up December 1. Battalion headquarters for the companies to be organized at Warren, Kane and Bradford will be established at Warren with Maj. Arthur F. Dickinson commanding the battalion, and Capt. James V. Scallise as commanding officer of Co. I, to be formed at Warren.

Since the announcement of the formation of the new regiment enlistments have been received to such an extent at Kane and Bradford that from present indications it would appear that these two cities will have their companies fully organized by the time the transfers take place.

Capt. Scallise reports that while enlistments at Warren for Co. I have been coming in at the rate of three and more each drill night, yet in view of the number of honorable discharged granted those joining the regular armed forces, the number is still insufficient to form a full company. More men are urgently needed to join Co. I, so that when December 1st rolls around, a full company will be in existence to carry on the glorious military traditions of the old "Co. I".

In order to facilitate enlistments in the State Guards, enlistment officers will be on duty at the State Armory at Warren on Sunday afternoon, Monday and Tuesday evenings.

New enlistments for the week include: Dominic A. Scallise of 11 E. Wayne St.; Ed. T. Zewatzky of 108 Market St.; and Ernest T. Toner of R. D. 3 Warren. Mr. Zewatzky had previously served over two years in the former Pennsylvania National Guards and had served with the regular U. S. Army, 109 Field Artillery, for a period during World War II when he was honorably discharged on a medical discharge.

Those between the ages of 17 and 50 are eligible to enlist, and under the present policy of the U. S. Army, all those 17 years old and those married men who will in all probabilities be inducted into service within the next six months or a year are urged to join promptly so as to receive as much basic training as possible before induction. The experience of those of Co. B who were inducted into the Army or enlisted in the Navy or Marine Corps seems to indicate that the preliminary training is sufficiently extensive to warrant giving a rating to the Guardsmen.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Motz, of Jackson Run, with three sons in the armed forces, have received word of the safe arrival in England of Paul H. Motz, sergeant technician fourth grade, first to go overseas. Cpl. Harold Motz is located at Fort Dix, N. J., and Pvt. Leroy C. Motz has been transferred from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to Fargo, N. D., for an eight weeks course in mechanics school.

Mrs. Vivian Linborg, of Youngsville, has received word that her husband, Pvt. Carl E. Linborg, who has been stationed at Miami Beach, Fla., has finished his basic training and is now attending an army administration school at Fargo, N. D.

Robert J. Stuart, seaman second class, who has completed his boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., is spending a nine-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott C. Stuart, Sugar Grove.

Huge new classes of young Americans who will carry block busters to Berlin and Tokyo, just graduated from the West Texas Bombardier Triangle, include John H. Rosequist, of Tidioute, a nephew of Mrs. C. G. Anderson, 20 Grant street, who completed the Midland Field study.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vavala, 703 West Fifth avenue, have received word that their son, Samuel, has arrived at Camp Pendleton, Va., to train for the coast artillery.

After enjoying a 15-day furlough at home in Pleasant township, Pfc. Junior Preston Briggs has returned to Camp Shelby, Miss., to resume his duties as a cook. Before coming home he received his diploma as first cook in the baker's and cook's school.

Wallace M. Egger, son of Paul Egger, of Pleasant township, enlisted for the navy and goes to Sampson, N. Y., for his basic training.

Nick J. Sversko, seaman first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sversko, Sheffield, is home on 15-day leave from active duty in the Atlantic and from action in the Mediterranean.

Sgt. Milo T. Dowd, stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla., with the amphibian command, is home on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Harry Reynolds, at Kinzua.

Mr. and Mrs. Boris Waxman, Verbeck street, have had word from their son, Pfc. Jerry Waxman, that he has been moved from Salt Lake City, Utah, to Pueblo, Colo., where he is doing radio mechanics with a bombing squadron. He writes that he would like to hear from friends at home or other boys in the service.

Pvt. F. Everett Borg, former photographer in Warren, is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. in the engineering corps.

New Group Project Now Taking Form

The Presbyterian Activities Club has a new group project under way, formation of a senior-junior group which will be advised by Marion Lutz, Barbara Lesser and Robert Whitehill and will hold its first meeting Sunday evening at the conclusion of the First Presbyterian Church of Tomorrow service.

Anyone of this age interested in this particular group is asked to contact Joyce VanTassel, Ruth Ann David or Jack Lesser concerning the plans.

Plans are well under way for the big party to be held at the YMCA on Saturday night of this week. Younger fry will be interested in the swimming from nine until ten o'clock, with a small charge for the pool, entertainment and games to follow. Those in the older age bracket will want to stay, also, for the dancing which continues until 11:30.

The Dramatics group scheduled three rehearsal periods for this week, the time set for seven o'clock Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights and the place, the church.

The Letter Club edited its first letter for service men and women last Friday night and will willingly provide copies for families requesting same; or will mail out such letters as proper addresses are provided. Anyone desiring a copy of the letter to send to service men or women may contact Alan Woodruff or James Richards.

If you ave had trouble shifting gears of late, the chances are that the transmission lubricant is much too light.

CAR ON FIRE

Due to the boiling over of a radiator filled with an anti-freeze solution an automobile owned by C. P. Hanson caught fire on Pennsylvania avenue near Hickory street last evening at 8:43. The emergency truck from the Central fire station answered the alarm. The wiring was damaged to some extent as the insulation was burned off. The firemen also investigated smoke in the Sigel Building yesterday. About 5 o'clock the department was called to the home of C. C. Winans, 104 Buchanan street, where gas was leaking from an electric refrigerator. The machine was carried out to a side porch by the firemen.

Mother Won Stripe As WAC Before Son Won His

An item appearing in "The Military News" will be of interest to many Warren friends of Mrs. M. Irene Davenport, native of Warren and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lesser, Cobham Park Road. The article follows:

"Pvt. James G. Davenport came down to Camp Robinson from Camp Gruber, Okla., last week to pay off a $25 wager—and he was very happy about the whole thing.

"The wager was in the form of a $25 War Bond and the winner of the little bet was Private Davenport's mother, Pfc. M. Irene Davenport, former director of public welfare in Lancaster county, Va., now an instructor in the Special Training Detachment of the 1339th Unit, 8th Service Command.

"Their meeting at the Reception Center at Camp Robinson was the first time they had seen each other since they both took the oath in the Service March 14 in Richmond, Va. And thereon hangs the story of Private Davenport's lost wager.

"When they were both inducted they wagered as to who would get a stripe first. Mother won.

"Pfc. Davenport, who enlisted in the WAAC, is now a member of the WAC. Both she and her son embarked for their present stations on the same day, Pfc. Davenport from the WAC Training Branch at Conway, Ark., and Private Davenport from Desert Maneuvers. Neither had any idea where they would be stationed, or that they would be so close together.

"Pfc. Davenport, who was director of public welfare in Lancaster county Va., for seven years before her enlistment, has another son, John H. Davenport, who enlisted immediately after Pearl Harbor and who is now in preliminary Aviation Cadet training at Carlisle, Pa."

Turkeys Not Too Expensive For Holiday

A list of 180 cents-per-pound ceiling prices for turkeys in November and December has been mailed by the price panel of the Warren Ration Board to all local dealers and township stores in this region. The board has extra copies for any seller who did not receive them.

The list is about the most complete pricing schedule that has ever been issued for fowl. It lists six classifications of turkeys, and six ways in which turkeys are sold, and establishes ceiling prices on all these types for the wholesaler, the four groups of retailers and also for the producer who sells to the consumer.

Persons who buy turkey are urged by OPA to study the list so they know what ceilings apply to the birds they are buying.

The six classifications are: young light turkey, young medium turkey, young heavy turkey, old light, medium and heavy. The methods of selling are: live, dressed, kosher killed, kosher dressed and plucked, drawn and frozen eviscerated.

The list defines everything, except what is an old turkey and what is a young one. Evidently that is left up to the buyer.

A medium drawn turkey is defined as one weighing 13 to 16½ pounds fully drawn. Since many turkeys bought here fall into this group, The Times-Mirror quotes some of the ceilings affecting this bird, supposing it was young.

The drawn wholesale price is 54c a pound; to the consumer who buys from a small store, the bird can cost no more than 63c a pound, which is also the highest price the farmer can charge if he sells direct to the consumer; in a big chain store the ceiling is 62c a pound. Frozen, fully drawn birds are higher, from 57c wholesale to 67c retail. These prices are the highest in all the 180.

The lowest retail price quoted is 38c a pound, for an old heavy turkey sold by producer to consumer.

It's all very complicated, but if anyone charges you more than 63c a pound for a turkey, you're being silly—unless that turkey happens to be a quick-frozen bird.

Best-Known For Externally Relieving Miseries of Baby's Colds

Mothers, when a young child catches cold—cold—cold—and relieve distress without dosing, without upsetting the stomach. At bedtime rub Vicks VapoRub on the throat, chest and back. It's what most young mothers do because VapoRub works direct two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours to bring relief—to ease coughing—relieve muscular soreness or tightness—and invite restful, comforting sleep. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone! Try it tonight.

When you see how VapoRub relieves distress of children's colds you should understand why it is the best-known home remedy of its kind in the world. It's just as good for grown-ups, too. Time-tested VICKS VapoRub

November Gift Mailing Does Not Mean Mailing Nov. 30

The First and Second Assistant Postmasters have issued to all postmasters over the nation a piece of publicity on early mailing of Christmas gifts that should not be taken lightly by the public. Due to the many gifts to be handled this year early mailing is a necessity and not a slogan. The publicity requested by the department is as follows:

Christmas Mails "Mail in November" does not mean "Mail on November 30". Reports from large post offices indicate that little Christmas mail has been started on its way by the public, although the press, radio, and business concerns are cooperating splendidly in spreading the word that November mailings are necessary this year if deliveries are to be made on time.

While postal officials anticipated that their advice to the public to "Mail in November" would bring no very heavy mailings until about November 15, it was hoped that a fair volume would be received during the first 2 weeks of the month.

Mailing of a huge volume of gifts and cards in the last 2 or 3 days of November will result in serious congestion in post offices and transferred facilities, with consequent delays. The mailings should be spread over a longer period to avoid a last-minute jam and to assure delivery by Christmas.

Postal officials advise that all who can possibly do so shall mail their gifts at once and mark them "Do Not Open Until Christmas."

If gifts are mailed during November, it is quite probable that some parcels and cards will be delivered rather early; this can do no harm. But if gifts are mailed late, it is certain that many of them will arrive after December 25, and this will result in disappointment both for civilians and for members of the armed forces who are still in this country.

Should the heavy mailings continue into December, it will be impossible to give any assurance of delivery by Christmas. Transportation lines are heavily burdened with war materials and personnel, and these must have preference over Christmas gifts when facilities are limited. Gifts cannot be permitted to interfere with the transportation of arms and supplies to our fighting forces.

The solution is MAIL NOW.

County Agent's News

PLAN THIS FALL TO REDUCE SOIL EROSION

Prevention of soil erosion may seem like an untimely topic after a season of drought. However, most farmers know what damage heavy rains can cause in gullies washed in the fields and the best soil carried off as muddy water. County Agent O. C. Tritt suggests that thoughtful planning can help to avoid these losses.

He reports that the simplest and most satisfactory erosion control is obtained in the laying out of washy slopes into strips on the contour so that all the rows run approximately level and do not lead the water into depressions where gullies can form. If the water does not start to run off so quickly, more of it soaks into the ground where crops can use it.

Between each pair of plowed strips there should be a strip of equal width in sod or winter grain. Sod not only will not wash, but it checks the water which may run off the plowed strip above and spreads it so that little damage is done.

Beginners with contour farming at first think the strips look a little queer, but when they get used to them they find many advantages in addition to reduced washing. For one thing, all farming operations are done on the level; no grades to pull up and down, and less horsepower and gear-shifting required. By throwing several fields together and running the strips across them, one can often make long rounds which are more economical to operate.

Extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College explain that the laying out of strips requires some planning in the matter of rotations and other operations. They feel that the job should be done as nearly right as practical at the start. That means the right width of strip and use of a level to get started on the true contour.

Any farmer who has an erosion problem can get extension circulars which give practical solutions. These are available at the County Agricultural Extension office in Warren. Additional help and guidance in planning and laying out contour strips can be gotten from County Agent O. C. Tritt.

The gliders used by the Germans in the invasion of Crete carried 12 men, were 50 feet long, and had a wingspan of more than 80 feet, a type which has been considerably improved upon by the Germans as well as the British and Americans.

FINAL ASSEMBLY

By E. H. LEFTWICH

YESTERDAY: Kitty Ambrose convinces Pete Neil that as long as the air force rejected him he might as well help build planes. She tells him he can get a job at Melvin Aircraft, where she works.

Chapter 3

H. C. ROLLINS, personnel manager for Melvin Aircraft, tilted back in his chair, scratched his ear, waved his attractive secretary out of the room and grinned at Pete Neil who sat facing him across the big desk.

"Universal Motors, eh?" Rollins looked at the paper slip in his hand which had been sent in from the outer office. "Pete, big outfit you've been working for."

"Well, it's not the biggest," Pete inched his big husky six-foot frame a bit closer to the desk. Instinctively, he liked Rollins. He was just the type of crisp young business executive Pete had expected him to be.

"I suppose you know why I'm here," Pete said. "You see I've decided that I want to work for an aircraft plant."

"I see," Rollins reached for the desk lighter and re-lit his cigar. "College?" he asked.

"Yes, State."

"Know anything about aircraft?"

"Not a great deal, but it wouldn't take me long to catch on. I think I'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"Just like that, eh?" Rollins smiled. "You know very little about ships and you think you'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"Yes, I would. I know I'd like it."

"How long have you been with Universal Motors?"

"About three years."

"Listen, Neil, I don't have to tell you that Universal Motors is a big outfit. I'm afraid we couldn't pay you the kind of money you've been making . . . and it's going to take you a couple of months to catch on . . ."

"It's that ship you're building," Pete said. "I'd like to have a part in helping to make it the safest and best ship in the world. He leaned forward and looked seriously into Rollins' eyes. "My Dad was a test-pilot. He lost his life because someone was careless . . ."

"I see." Again Rollins' cigar had gone out. He started to reach for the lighter, but picked up the paper slip instead. "I can use you, Neil, in Final Assembly, on the second shift. Of course you've done designing and know how to figure stress from your automobile experience . . ."

"Well," Pete interrupted, "You see, I . . ."

"Okay. Okay," Rollins broke in. "You needn't try to explain. I'm used to your type. Most engineers are that way, especially ones out of college just long enough to realize that the world is not their oyster, modest and all that . . ."

"But, I . . ."

"Save it, Neil. I'm busy, you see. No time for arguments. Do we have your application?"

"Yes, I filed it out just before I came in."

"Okay," Rollins waved his hand. "I'll look it up later. I'll have you start up as a beginner at sixty-five cents per hour, but with a little overtime you'll get fairly nice checks. You'll work with an engineer who's making some changes in our design."

"Fine, Mr. Rollins. I appreciate the chance, only . . ."

"Don't thank me, Neil. We're going to need good men and I think I know one when I see one. Hurriedly he jotted out a form and handed it to Pete.

"Give this to the doctor's first door on the left. He'll look you over in ten minutes. You'll start today at 3:30 P. M. and work until 12 P. M."

They shook hands. "Thanks a lot," Pete said. "I'll give it all

I've got and I hope you'll never regret hiring me."

"I'm sure I won't," Rollins grinned. "Good luck!"

Twenty minutes later Pete had passed the routine physical examination and was on his way toward the plant entrance and the bus station. "Pierced eardrums, eh?" the doctor had laughed at the worried look on Pete's face. "That little trouble won't hurt your chances here at all."

He heard someone walking behind him. He turned and saw a thin, pale-faced youth who hurried to his side. "The stranger held out a bony hand. "I'm Lester Graham," he said. "I saw you in the Doc's office a little while ago."

"I'm Pete Neil," Pete shook Graham's hand and liked the way the long thin fingers gripped his own. "Are you going to work here?"

Graham laughed. "Some call it 'work,'" he said. "but I've been staying here for the past four months. I'm a first-class stock-chaser. Just came out to get my check. I was sick last week . . . had a cold. The Doc looked me over and said I was healthy enough to go back to work. So back I go tonight."

THIS was a piece of luck, Pete thought, finding a friend so soon, and best of all, one on the same shift. He decided to force his luck a bit more. "Lester," he said. "I wonder if you know a good low-priced room I can rent in town. With board."

Graham smiled pleasantly and again thrust out his hand. "Brother," he said. "Meet your new room-mate."

"Swell," Pete agreed. "And the price?"

"Oh, about eight bucks per week."

"Sold!" Pete wanted to ask one more question. "Since you're a man of parts," he said, "I wonder if you'd happen to know a girl named Kitty Ambrose?"

A look of studied astonishment flooded Graham's face. "Do I know Kitty Ambrose?" he said. "Everybody in the plant knows Kitty. The sweetest kid who ever painted a star on a wing! And it's not possible for anyone to be so good-looking. Do I know Kitty Ambrose?"

"I'll fire him . . . so help me . . . I'll fire him!"

H. C. Rollins, red-faced and fuming, paced up and down the floor of his office with quick strides. He waved Pete's application form, which he had taken from the files a moment before, in the air, under the nose of his pretty secretary.

"But, you can't fire him!" The girl, grinning, had risen from her seat near the desk. She faced Rollins, eyes sparkling with suppressed merriment. She started to speak again, but could contain herself no longer.

She burst suddenly into uncontrolled laughter, her voice ringing throughout the little room. She fell back into her chair holding her sides with both hands.

"Imagine," she choked. "Imagine the great 'H.C.' being played for a sap. Oh, it's too good to keep!"

Still laughing she rose again from her seat and stumbled toward the door, but Rollins caught her by the arm.

"No, you don't!" he hissed. "Get back in your seat, and for once in your life, be serious."

"Okay," she grinned. "But I still say you can't fire him."

"Why, not?"

"Because all new employees are given thirty days probation. You can't fire one before that unless he does something really drastic."

"DRASTIC! How in hell could it be more drastic! He lied to me. He played me for a sucker . . . a sap. He told me he worked for Universal Motors, when he was only a mechanic in a country garage . . ."

"Wait," the girl interrupted. "Didn't that garage handle Universal Motors cars?"

"Well, yes . . . but . . ."

"Then he did work for Universal Motors . . . indirectly."

"Indirectly, is right. Then bless Pat, he led me to believe that he was an automotive engineer . . . an engineer . . ."

"Did he actually say that?"

"Well, not exactly, but . . ."

"And I suppose you were so darn busy you didn't take time to look up his application . . . you were so glad to get what you thought was an engineer . . . for sixty-five cents . . ."

"How did you know?" Rollins had taken a seat. He mopped his brow with a limp handkerchief.

"I haven't been your secretary for a year for nothing, or I should say, 'next to nothing!'"

"What do you mean, 'next to nothing?' You got a nickel an hour raise, recently, didn't you?"

"Sure, I got a nickel raise, all right . . . six months ago, when I happened to overhear just why you hired that sap, Charles Brackmyde. I got the raise when I promised to keep my mouth shut. So . . . H. C. . ."

She paused for breath, her eyes twinkling impishly. "This is going to cost you another nickel, see?"

"I see . . . you little bandit!"

"Oh, yeah? Well, that's what you say, but you know darn well, I'm worth every nickel, emphasis on the 'nickle' of it."

"Okay . . . okay. But what am I going to do about this . . . Pete Neil? You tell me. You seem to know everything."

"You can do anything about him."

"Oh, yes I can. Obviously, he's not an engineer, so I'll just send his papers down to his foreman, with a note advising that he be put on the lowest type of 'dog-chasing.' He won't like that, but a damn, and he'll do a bum job. Then, I can fire him. Even if he does a fair job, I can fire him anyway, after thirty days, and as for you . . ."

He aimed a finger at her forehead. "If you weren't such a good secretary, I'd fire you, too. You're too personal. You know too much. I'm allergic to you!"

"Oh, yes? Well, let me tell you something, H. C. If it weren't for the amusement you afford me, I'd have left this 'big-pay' job of yours long ago. There's nothing I enjoy so much as a good laugh."

Pete lay on his back, hands under his head, stretched out on the sagging double bed in the little room which he was to share with Lester Graham. He had decided to relax for a few moments while Graham had gone to the corner drug store for a pack of cigarettes. In about thirty minutes it would be time to catch the bus for the plant to begin his first night's work.

Casually he let his eyes rove over the four walls of the room which were covered with badly faded, sickly pink wall-paper and unadorned except for a poorly-executed painting representing a pair of much-too-buxom young ladies leaping leap-frog or something on the banks of a lily pond. It was funny, but one of them reminded him of Mary Donnelly, back home.

A couple of cane-bottom chairs in fairly good shape and a nondescript bureau completed an inventory of the room's furnishings. Not much, but what could one expect for eight bucks? It would do until he got his first raise or pulled down some overtime. Graham seemed to be a very congenial sort of chap, and after all, he should consider himself lucky to have found such a friend and a place to live so easily.

In a few moments he would begin his career as assistant to a real aircraft engineer. Maybe this was even better than becoming a pilot. On this job he'd have a real opportunity to learn all about airplanes. He could become a pilot later, after the war, and earn big money with a background of real practical aircraft experience. Kitty had been right. There was a place for him in the aircraft industry. He mustn't think too much about Kitty . . . there was Mary Donnelly at home. But he wondered if he'd see her on his first night.

THE NEXT STOP WAS NAPLES

The Army engineers were on the job at Pesto, Italy, near Salerno, when Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's invaders landed on Hitler's Fortress Europa. Here you see a pontoon dock, where one of our big landing craft is unloading, laid right to the beach. Some idea of the size of these new landing boats built for invasions such as that of Italy can be made by comparing it with the trucks that have been swarming out of its giant maw. Your War Bond purchases helped to build such landing craft and these trucks.

Company B Desires Recruits to Make Company Full Strength

According to word received from Harrisburg, the 4th Regiment of the Pennsylvania State Guards will be officially set up December 1. Battalion headquarters for the companies to be organized at Warren, Kane and Bradford will be established at Warren with Maj. Arthur F. Dickinson commanding the battalion, and Capt. James V. Scallise as commanding officer of Co. I, to be formed at Warren.

Since the announcement of the formation of the new regiment enlistments have been received to such an extent at Kane and Bradford that from present indications it would appear that these two cities will have their companies fully organized by the time the transfers take place.

Capt. Scallise reports that while enlistments at Warren for Co. I have been coming in at the rate of three and more each drill night, yet in view of the number of honorable discharges granted those joining the regular armed forces, the number is still insufficient to form a full company. More men are urgently needed to join Co. I, so that when December 1st rolls around, a full company will be in existence to carry on the glorious military traditions of the old "Co. I".

In order to facilitate enlistments in the State Guards, enlisting officers will be on duty at the State Armory at Warren on Sunday afternoon, Monday and Tuesday evenings.

New enlistments for the week include: Dominic A. Scallise of 11 E. Wayne St.; Ed. T. Zewatzky of 108 Market St.; and Ernest T. Toner of R. D. 3 Warren. Mr. Zewatzky had previously served over two years in the former Pennsylvania National Guards and had served with the regular U. S. Army, 109 Field Artillery, for a period during World War II when he was honorably discharged on a medical discharge.

Those between the ages of 17 and 50 are eligible to enlist, and under the present policy of the U. S. Army, all those 17 years old and those married men who will in all probabilities be inducted into service within the next six months or a year are urged to join promptly so as to receive as much basic training as possible before induction. The experience of those of Co. B who were inducted into the Army or enlisted in the Navy or Marine Corps seems to indicate that the preliminary training is sufficiently extensive to warrant giving a rating to the Guardsmen.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Motz, of Jackson Run, with three sons in the armed forces, have received word of the safe arrival in England of Paul H. Motz, sergeant technician fourth grade, first to go overseas. Cpl. Harold Motz is located at Fort Dix, N. J., and Pvt. Leroy C. Motz has been transferred from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to Fargo, N. D., for an eight weeks course in mechanics school.

Mrs. Vivian Linborg, of Youngsville, has received word that her husband, Pvt. Carl E. Linborg, who has been stationed at Miami Beach, Fla., has finished his basic training and is now attending an army administration school at Fargo, N. D.

Robert J. Stuart, seaman second class, who has completed his boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., is spending a nine-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott C. Stuart, Sugar Grove.

Huge new classes of young Americans who will carry block busters to Berlin and Tokyo, just graduated from the West Texas Bombarrier Triangle, include John H. Rosequist, of Tidioute, a nephew of Mrs. C. G. Anderson, 20 Grant street, who completed the Midland Field study.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vavala, 703 West Fifth avenue, have received word that their son, Samuel, has arrived at Camp Pendleton, Va., to train for the coast artillery.

After enjoying a 15-day furlough at home in Pleasant township, Pfc. Junior Preston Briggs has returned to Camp Shelby, Miss., to resume his duties as a cook. Before coming home he received his diploma as first cook in the baker's and cook's school.

Wallace M. Egger, son of Paul Egger, of Pleasant township, has enlisted for the navy and goes to Sampson, N. Y., for his basic training.

Nick J. Sversko, seaman first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sversko, Sheffield, is home on 15-day leave from active duty in the Atlantic and from action in the Mediterranean.

Sgt. Milo T. Dowd, stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla., with the amphibian command, is home on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Harry Reynolds, at Kinzua.

Mr. and Mrs. Boris Waxman, Verbeck street, have had word from their son, Pfc. Jerry Waxman, that he has been moved from Salt Lake City, Utah, to Pueblo, Colo., where he is doing radio mechanics with a bombing squadron. He writes that he would like to hear from friends at home or other boys in the service.

Pvt. F. Everett Borg, former photographer in Warren, is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. in the engineering corps.

TO OMIT MEETING

Officers of the School Music Boosters Club have decided to omit entirely the November meeting, the next session to be on the regular date, December 9.

DR. DAVIS HERE

The quarterly crippled children's clinic will be held at Warren General Hospital at 9:00 a. m. Thursday in charge of Dr. Arthur G. Davis, of Erie.

SKUNK HIT BY CAR

A skunk that had been hit by an automobile was removed from Crescent street last night by police officers. The animal today was taken to the garbage plant and disposed of there.

PUBLIC IS INVITED

The Nurse's Aide Committee of Warren County Red Cross extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend capping exercises to be held in Founders Hall of First Methodist church at 8:00 p. m. Thursday for the fourth class completing the 80-hour Nurse's Aide instruction.

ARRANGING PARTY

The Sheffield Rod and Gun Club has planned a stag party for Sunday afternoon at the clubhouse on the Bull Hill road, fun to start at one o'clock and all guests welcome. Everyone is reminded to bring his .22 rifle. The committee promises lunch along with other entertainment.

DECLARED DIVIDEND

Sylvania Electric Products Company at a meeting held Tuesday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the outstanding common stock of the company as well as an extra 25 cents the share on the common. Both dividends are to be paid on December 20, 1943, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 9, 1943.

PLAN MEMORIAL

At a well attended meeting of Warren Lodge, No. 223, B. P. O. Elks, held last evening, a class of candidates was initiated and plans were furthered for the annual memorial service to be held at 3 p. m. Sunday, December 5. The Rt. Rev. E. Pinkney Wirth, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Erie, will return to deliver the memorial address. Other program details are being worked out and will be announced later. A social time and lunch followed the meeting.

CAR ON FIRE

Due to the boiling over of a radiator filled with an anti-freeze solution an automobile owned by C. P. Hanson caught fire on Pennsylvania avenue near Hickory street last evening at 8:43. The emergency truck from the Central fire station answered the alarm. The wiring was damaged to some extent as the insulation was burned off. The firemen also investigated smoke in the Sigel Building yesterday. About 5 o'clock the department was called to the home of C. C. Winans, 104 Buchanan street, where gas was leaking from an electric refrigerator. The machine was carried out to a side porch by the firemen.

Mother Won Stripe As WAC Before Son Won His

An item appearing in "The Military News" will be of interest to many Warren friends of Mrs. M. Irene Davenport, native of Warren and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lesser, Cobham Park Road. The article follows:

"Pvt. James G. Davenport came down to Camp Robinson from Camp Gruber, Okla., last week to pay off a $25 wager—and he was very happy about the whole thing. "The wager was in the form of a $25 War Bond and the winner of the little bet was Private Davenport's mother, Pfc. M. Irene Davenport, former director of public welfare in Lancaster county, Va., now an instructor in the Special Training Detachment of the 1839th Unit, 8th Service Command.

"Their meeting at the Reception Center at Camp Robinson was the first time they had seen each other since they both took the oath in the Service March 14 in Richmond, Va. And thereon hangs the story of Private Davenport's lost wager.

"When they were both inducted they wagered as to who would get a stripe first. Mother won.

"Pfc. Davenport, who enlisted in the WAAC, is now a member of the WAC. Both she and her son embarked for their present stations on the same day, Pfc. Davenport from the WAC Training Branch at Conway, Ark., and Private Davenport from Desert Maneuvers. Neither had any idea where they would be stationed, or that they would be so close together.

"Pfc. Davenport, who was director of public welfare in Lancaster county, Va., for seven years before her enlistment, has another son, John H. Davenport, who enlisted immediately after Pearl Harbor and who is now in preliminary Aviation Cadet training at Carlisle, Pa."

Turkeys Not Too Expensive For Holiday

A list of 180 cents-per-pound ceiling prices for turkeys in November and December has been mailed by the price panel of the Warren Ration Board to all local dealers and township stores in this region. The board has extra copies for any seller who did not receive them.

The list is about the most complete pricing schedule that has ever been issued for fowl. It lists six classifications of turkeys, and six ways in which turkeys are sold, and establishes ceiling prices on all these types for the wholesaler, the four groups of retailers and also for the producer who sells to the consumer.

Persons who buy turkey are urged by OPA to study the list so they know what ceilings apply to the birds they are buying.

The six classifications are: young light turkey, young medium turkey, young heavy turkey, old light, medium and heavy. The methods of selling are: live, dressed, kosher killed, kosher dressed and plucked, drawn and frozen eviscerated.

The list defines everything, except what is an old turkey and what is a young one. Evidently that is left up to the buyer.

A medium drawn turkey is defined as one weighing 13 to 16½ pounds fully drawn. Since many turkeys bought here fall into this group, The Times-Mirror quotes some of the ceilings affecting this bird, supposing it was young.

The drawn wholesale price is 54c a pound; to the consumer who buys from a small store, the bird can cost no more than 63c a pound, which is also the highest price the farmer can charge if he sells direct to the consumer, in a big chain store the ceiling is 62c a pound. Frozen, fully drawn birds are higher, from 57c wholesale to 67c retail. These prices are the highest in all the 180.

The lowest retail price quoted is 38c a pound, for an old heavy turkey sold by producer to consumer.

It's all very complicated, but if anyone charges you more than 63c a pound for a turkey, you're being bilked—unless that turkey happens to be a quick-frozen bird.

November Gift Mailing Does Not Mean Mailing Nov. 30

The First and Second Assistant Postmasters have issued to all postmasters over the nation a piece of publicity on early mailing of Christmas gifts that should not be taken lightly by the public. Due to the many gifts to be handled this year early mailing is a necessity and not a slogan. The publicity requested by the department is as follows:

Christmas Mails

"Mail in November" does not mean "Mail on November 30". Reports from target post offices indicate that little Christmas mail has been started on its way by the public, although the press, radio, and business concerns are cooperating splendidly in spreading the word that November mailings are necessary this year if deliveries are to be made on time.

While postal officials anticipated that their advice to the public to "Mail in November" would bring no very heavy mailings until about November 15, it was hoped that a fair volume would be received during the first two weeks of the month.

Mailing of a huge volume of gifts and cards in the last 2 or 3 days of November will result in serious congestion in post offices and transferred facilities, with consequent delays. The mailings should be spread over a longer period to avoid a last-minute jam and to assure delivery by Christmas.

Postal officials advise that all who can possibly do so shall mail their gifts at once and mark them "Do Not Open Until Christmas."

If gifts are mailed during November, it is quite probable that some parcels and cards will be delivered rather early; this can do no harm. But if gifts are mailed late, it is certain that many of them will arrive after December 25, and this will result in disappointment both for civilians and for members of the armed forces who are still in this country.

Should the heavy mailings continue into December, it will be impossible to give any assurance of delivery by Christmas. Transportation lines are heavily burdened with war materials and personnel, and these must have preference over Christmas gifts when facilities are limited. Gifts cannot be permitted to interfere with the transportation of arms and supplies to our fighting forces.

The solution is: MAIL NOW.

County Agent's News

PLAN THIS FALL TO REDUCE SOIL EROSION

Prevention of soil erosion may seem like an untimely topic after a serious drought. However, most farmers know what damage heavy rains can cause in gullies washed in the fields and the best soil carried off as muddy water. County Agent O. C. Triff suggests that forethought and planning can help to avoid these losses.

He reports that the simplest and most satisfactory erosion control is obtained in the laying out of washy slopes into strips on the contour so that all the rows run approximately level and do not lead the water into depressions where gullies can form. If the water does not start to run off so quickly, more of it soaks into the ground where crops can use it.

Between each pair of plowed strips there should be a strip of equal width in sod or winter grain. Sod not only will not wash, but it checks the water which may run off the plowed strip above and spreads it so that little damage is done.

Beginners with contour farming at first think the strips look a little queer, but when they get used to them they find many advantages in addition to reduced washing. For one thing, all farming operations are done on the level; no grades to pull up and down, and less horsepower and gear-shifting required. By throwing several fields together and running the strips across them, one can often make long rounds which are more economical to operate.

Extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College explain that the laying out of strips requires some planning in the matter of rotations and other operations. They feel that the job should be done as nearly right as practical at the start. That means the right width of strip and use of a level to get started on the true contour.

Any farmer who has an erosion problem can get extension circulars which give practical solutions. These are available at the County Agricultural Extension office in Warren. Additional help and guidance in planning and laying out contour strips can be gotten from County Agent O. C. Triff.

The gliders used by the Germans in the invasion of Crete carried 12 men, were 50 feet long, and had a wingspan of more than 80 feet, a type which has been considerably improved upon by the Germans as well as the British and Americans.

FINAL ASSEMBLY By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 3

H. C. ROLLINS, personnel manager for Melvin Aircraft, tilted back in his chair, scratched his ear, waved his attractive secretary out of the room and grinned at Pete Neil who sat facing him across the big desk.

"Universal Motors, eh?" Rollins looked at the paper slip in his hand which had been sent in from the outer office. "Petty big outfit you've been working for."

"Well, it's not the biggest," Pete inched his big husky six-foot frame a bit closer to the desk. Instinctively, he liked Rollins. He was just the type of crisp young business executive Pete had expected him to be.

"I suppose you know why I'm here," Pete said. "You see I've decided that I want to work for an aircraft plant."

"I see," Rollins reached for the desk lighter and re-lit his cigar. "College?" he asked.

"Yes, State."

"Know anything about aircraft?"

"Not a great deal, but it wouldn't take me long to catch on. I think I'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"Just like that, eh?" Rollins smiled. "You know very little about ships and you think you'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"Yes, I would. I know I'd like it."

"How long have you been with Universal Motors?"

"About three years."

"Listen, Neil. I don't have to tell you that Universal Motors is a big outfit. I'm afraid we couldn't pay you the kind of money you've been making . . . and it's going to take you a couple of months to catch on. . . ."

"ALL right, Mr. Rollins," Pete cleared his throat and leaned forward. I guess you think I'm a sap to want to give up a good job and go into something that I'm sort of green on, but a good mechanic can catch on quickly, and besides . . . well, I've just got to get a job here."

"Why?"

For a moment Pete gazed at the big color photo of the "Melvin Menace," on the wall over Rollins' head. Trim and sleek, the ship represented streamlined deadliness. Rollins turned his head and saw the picture.

"It's that ship you're building," Pete said. "I'd like to have a part in helping to make it the safest and best ship in the world." He leaned forward and looked seriously into Rollins' eyes. "My Dad was a test-pilot. He lost his life because someone was careless."

"I see." Again Rollins' cigar had gone out. He started to reach for the lighter, but picked up the paper slip instead. "I can use you, Neil, in Final Assembly, on the second shift. Of course you've done designing and know how to figure stress from your automobile experience. . . ."

"Well," Pete interrupted, "You see . . ."

"Okay," Rollins broke in. "You needn't try to explain. I'm used to your type. Most engineers are that way, especially ones out of college just long enough to realize that the world is not their oyster, modest and all that. . . ."

"But, I . . ."

"Save it, Neil. I'm busy, you see. No time for arguments. Do we have your application?"

"Yes, I filed it out just before I came in."

"O.KAY," Rollins waved his hand. "I'll look it up later. I'll have to start you as a beginner at sixty-five cents per hour, but with a little overtime you'll get fairly nice checks. You'll work with an engineer who is making some changes in our design."

"Fine, Mr. Rollins. I appreciate the chance, only . . ."

"Don't thank me, Neil. We're going to need good men and I think I know one when I see one." Hurriedly he filled out a form and handed it to Pete.

"Give this to the doctor: first door on the left. He'll look you over in ten minutes. You'll start today at 3:30 P.M. and work until 12 P.M."

They shook hands. "Thanks a lot," Pete said. "I'll give it all I've got and I hope you'll never regret hiring me."

"I'm sure I won't," Rollins grinned. "Good luck."

Twenty minutes later Pete had passed the routine physical examination and was on his way toward the plant entrance and the bus station. "Pierced eardrum, eh?" The doctor had laughed at the worried look on Pete's face. "That little trouble won't hurt your chances here at all."

He heard someone walking behind him. He turned and saw a thin pale-faced youth who hurried to his side. The stranger held out a bony hand. "I'm Lester Graham," he said. "I saw you in the Doc's office a little while ago."

"I'm Pete Neil," Pete shook Graham's hand and liked the way the long thin fingers gripped his own. "Are you going to work here?"

Graham laughed. "Some call it 'work,' he said. 'I've been staying here for the past four months. I'm a first-class stock-chaser. Just came out to get my check. I was sick last week . . . had a cold. The Doc looked me over and said I was healthy enough to go back to work. So back I go tonight."

"THIS was a piece of luck, Pete thought, finding a friend so soon and best of all, one on the same shift. He decided to force his luck a bit more. "Lester," he said. "I wonder if you know a good low-priced room I can rent in town. With board."

Graham smiled pleasantly and again thrust out his hand. "Brother," he said. "Meet your new room-mate."

"Well," Pete agreed, "And the price?"

"Oh, about eight bucks per week."

"Sold!"

Pete wanted to ask one more question. "Since you're a man of 'parts,' he said, "I wonder if you'd happen to know a girl named Kitty Ambrose?"

A look of studied astonishment flooded Graham's face. "Do I know Kitty Ambrose?" he said. "Everybody in the plant knows Kitty. The sweetest kid who ever painted a star on a wing! And it's not possible for anyone to be so good-looking. Do I know Kitty Ambrose!"

FINAL ASSEMBLY By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 4

"I'll fire him . . . so help me . . . I'll fire him!"

H. C. Rollins, red-faced and fuming, paced up and down the floor of his office with quick strides. He waved Pete's application form, which he had taken from the files a moment before, in the air, under the nose of his pretty secretary.

"But, you can't fire him!" The girl, grinning, had risen from her seat near the desk. She faced Rollins, eyes sparkling with suppressed merriment. She started to speak again, but could contain herself no longer.

She burst suddenly into uncontrolled laughter, her voice ringing throughout the little room. She fell back into her chair, holding her sides with both hands.

"Imagine," she choked. "Imagine the great 'H.C.' being played for a sap. Oh, it's too good to keep!"

Still laughing she rose again from her seat and stumbled toward the door, but Rollins caught her by the arm.

"No, you don't!" he hissed. "Get back in your seat, and for once in your life, be serious."

"Okay," she grinned. "But I still say you can't fire him."

"Why, not?"

"Because all new employees are given thirty days probation. You can't fire one before that unless he does something really drastic."

"DRASTIC! How in hell could it be more drastic! He lied to me. He played me for a sucker . . . a sap. He told me he worked for Universal Motors, when he was only a mechanic in a country garage. . . ."

"Wait," the girl interrupted. "Didn't that garage handle Universal Motors cars?"

"Well, yes . . . but . . ."

"Then he did work for Universal Motors . . . indirectly."

"Indirectly, is right. Then bless Pat, he led me to believe that he was an automotive engineer . . . an engineer. . . ."

"Did he actually say that?"

"Well, not exactly, but . . ."

"And I suppose you were so darn busy you didn't take time to look up his application . . . you were so glad to get what you thought was an engineer . . . for sixty-five cents. . . ."

"How did you know?" Rollins had taken a seat. He mopped his brow with a limp handkerchief.

"I haven't been your secretary for a year for nothing, or I should say, 'next to nothing!'"

"What do you mean, 'next to nothing?' You got a nickel an hour raise, recently, didn't you?"

"Sure, I got a nickel raise, all right . . . six months ago, when I happened to overhear just why you hired that sap, Charles Brackmeyer. I got the raise when I promised to keep my mouth shut. So . . . H. C. . . ."

"She paused for breath, her eyes twinkling impishly. "This is going to cost you another nickel, see?"

"I see . . . you little bandit!"

"Oh, yeah? Well, that's what you say, but you know darn well, I'm worth every nickel, emphasis on the 'nickle' of it."

"Okay . . . okay. But what am I going to do about this . . . Pete Neil? You tell me. You seem to know everything."

"You can't do anything about him."

"Oh, yes I can. Obviously, he's not an engineer, so I'll just send his papers down to his foreman, with a note advising that he be put on the lowest type of 'dog-chasing.' He won't like that worth a damn, and he'll do a bum job. Then, I can fire him. Even if he does a fair job, I can fire him anyway, after thirty days, and as for you . . ."

He aimed a finger at her forehead. "If you weren't such a good secretary, I'd fire you, too. You're too personal. You know too much. I'm allergic to you!"

"Oh, yes? Well, let me tell you something, H. C. If it weren't for the amusement you afford me, I'd have left this 'big-pay' job of yours long ago. There's nothing I enjoy so much as a good laugh."

Pete lay on his back, hands under his head, stretched out on the sagging double bed in the little room which he was to share with Lester Graham. He had decided to relax for a few moments while Graham had gone to the corner drug store for a pack of cigarettes. In about thirty minutes it would be time to catch the bus for the plant to begin his first night's work.

Casually he let his eyes rove over the four walls of the room which were covered with badly faded, sickly pink wall-paper and adorned except for a poorly-executed painting representing a pair of much-too-buxom young ladies playing leap-frog or something on the top of a lily pond. It was funny, but one of them reminded him of Mary Donnelly, back home.

A couple of cane-bottom chairs in fairly good shape and a nondescript bureau completed an inventory of the room's furnishings. Not much, but what could one expect for eight bucks? It would do until he got his first raise or pulled down some overtime. Graham seemed to be a very congenial sort of chap, and after all, he should consider himself lucky to have found such a friend and a place to live so easily.

In a few moments he would begin his career as assistant to a real aircraft engineer. Maybe this was even better than becoming a pilot. On this job he'd have a real opportunity to learn all about airplanes. He could become a pilot later, after the war, and earn big money with a background of very practical aircraft experience. Kitty had been right. There was a place for him in the aircraft industry. He mustn't think too much about Kitty . . . there was Mary Donnelly at home. But he wondered if he'd see her on his first night.

Tour of Americas Is Continued By The Blue Stockings

Blue Stocking Club members held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. S. Tarbox, Fourth avenue, with Mrs. George Calderwood assisting and Miss Ethel Morris, president, conducting a brief meeting.

The club study for the year was continued with Miss Mabel Abbott acting as guide to Panama and Venezuela and making this part of the cruise unforgettable with many interesting facts from the early history of 1502 to the present.

She pointed out that of special interest today is the third set of locks at Panama Canal, built in 1914 as a war measure and constructed of the same basic natural materials as the original set of locks. She showed, also, that Venezuela is established as the third largest oil producing company of the world, exceeded only by the United States and Russia.

Miss Morris and Mrs. W. R. Carlin presided at the tea table which was attractively centered with yellow pompons and tapers.

The next club meeting will be held December 7 with Mrs. William E. Lutz and Mrs. R. F. Hemingway as hostesses.

DOUBLE PURPOSE OF SURPRISE PARTY
Mrs. Florence Sampson and Mrs. Anna Mae Schaeffer entertained members of their birthday club last evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Highhouse, Pleasant township, as a surprise for her birthday anniversary.

Another surprise of the evening was announcement that Vera Bonace has chosen Thursday afternoon of this week for her marriage to Pfc. Steve Petrowski, of Camp Campbell, Ky.

Both honored guests were presented gifts from the group, including the following members: Margaret Serwatka, Martha Mahood, Betty Wertman, Florence Grant, Eietta Tingwall and a guest, Margaret Highhouse.

COMMUNITY SERVICE DEPARTMENT MEETING
Attorney J. H. Alexander, speaking at Monday's meeting of Community Service Department at the Woman's Club, related many interesting facts in his "Story of Stonewall". The business meeting was in charge of Chairman Dorothy Newell and announcement was made that Mrs. W. N. Hutchings will be in charge of reading a play at next Monday's meeting of Dramatic Section. To conclude, tea was served at a pretty table presided over by Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Walter Beaty.

Polio Topic of M. D. Before Medic Group
At the November meeting of the Warren County Medical Society, held Tuesday afternoon at the YWCA activities building, Dr. Fitzgerald H. Clark, of Jamestown, gave a history of the Kenny treatment for infantile paralysis and demonstrated, with the assistance of the New York state nurse Miss Wigren, the method of applying the packs which Miss Kenny uses to overcome the muscle spasm present in the early stages of polio.

This treatment has been much publicized and, for certain types of the disease, has been very effective.

Twenty-five members were in attendance. Dinner followed, with Doctors Gail K. Ridsperger, H. R. Robertson, Floyd Schuler, W. H. Shortt and R. L. Taylor as hosts.

LACY UNIT
The Lacy School PTA met last evening with a large attendance. Miss Dunkle's room won the attendance award. The president, Mrs. Kotmair opened the meeting and group singing directed by Miss Frances Peterson followed. Members were reminded that the Community Council will meet December 9th, and a large attendance is hoped for. Announcement was made that the Home Nursing Class will begin after the first of the year and members desiring to take the course were asked to contact Mrs. Katmair at once.

The program given in conjunction with National Education Week. Last Wednesday was visiting day in the school and it was reported that there were 126 visitors during the period.

The program given proved highly pleasing. A piano solo was given by Virginia Johnson; a talk on "How National Education Week Originated" was given by Miss Dunkle and a quartette composed of Mrs. Beryl Rhodes, Mrs. Lorraine Harkless, Miss Frances Peterson and Mrs. Geraldine Mathias sang two charming numbers, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Jack.

An inspiring talk by Herbert D. Harris followed and then refreshments were served by Miss Dunkle and Miss VanLuvane.

Visitors' Day for National Education Week was observed last week with 123 guests at the school, and last night's program was in observance of the same event. Mr. Harris' talk on "Education for Victory" being the general theme of this year's celebration. His main point was that education for peace will have to be started at a very early age, even before school days, if the world is ever to be entirely free from the horrors of war and its economic upheavals.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF WARREN COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA
No.— December Term, 1943
NOTICE is hereby given that application will be made to above court on the 22nd day of November 1943, at 10 o'clock A. M., under the provisions of the "Non-profit Corporation Law" of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved May 5, 1933, and the supplements thereto for the Charter of an intended corporation to be called the Garland Community House Association, the character and object of which is to create, cultivate, foster and promote for the general public good, the social, educational, recreational and civic interest, culture and welfare of the inhabitants of Garland, Pennsylvania, and the vicinity thereof, etc., and for these purposes to acquire, hold, possess and enjoy all the rights, privileges, immunities and facilities incident to or necessary therefor, including the right to acquire, own, hold and dispose of all necessary real estate, buildings, auditorium, furniture, furnishings and equipment all of which does not contemplate any pecuniary gain or profit, incidental or otherwise, to its members.

The proposed charter is now on file in the Prothonotary's Office.

Sid Luckman is Replaced By Clark as Leading Ball Carrier

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—While Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears set aerial record against New York, his teammate, Harry Clark, used the Giants as a convenient stepping stone to regain the ball-carrying leadership of the National Football League this week.

Clark traveled 15 times with the ball to burn through the easterners' defense for 81 yards, bringing his total gain for eight games this season to 435. This production enabled the veteran Bear half-back from West Virginia to replace his rival, Tony Canadeo, of the Green Bay Packers, in the No. 1 ball-carrying spot.

Canadeo, the former Gonzaga star who became top man in Green Bay's backfield this season with the departure of Cecil Isbell, fell into second place after being limited to 38 yards in eight attempts by the Chicago Cardinals Sunday. His total gain in eight games is 424. Canadeo's running average per play, however, is better than Clark's—5.3 to 4.6.

Dante Magnani, another Bear, is third in rushing with 277 yards, but he has one of the best averages in the league, 6.8, and has made the longest single gain, 79 yards.

Luckman's feat of throwing seven touchdowns and officially gaining 433 yards on passes against the Giants—both new records—kept him entrenched in the aerial lead with a total of 91 completions in 158 attempts for 1,808 yards and 23 touchdowns.

Although he has been sworn into the Merchant Marine, Luckman probably will be able to play out the season, including the championship playoff Dec. 19, before being called up.

He has two more league games, against the Washington Redskins Sunday and the Cardinals a week hence, in which to bid for two all-time records. Two more touchdowns passes will eclipse Isbell's mark of 24 last year, and 214 additional yards gained will top Isbell's 2,021, also made in 1942.

Sammy Baugh of Washington also has a fine chance to better Isbell's standards as well as surpass Luckman before the season ends. He has four games to go and already has hit on 85 of 154 passes for 1,138 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Baugh's foot is becoming as famed as his arm, the 1942 punting king took over the lead this week after getting off 10 punts against Detroit for an average of 51.9 yards, including an 81-yard effort, the season's longest. This brought his average for 34 kicks for the season to 47.8.

Philadelphia Still Angles For Army-Navy Grid Contest

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—A resolution asking that the traditional Army-Navy football game be played in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium instead of Michie Stadium, West Point, N. Y., is before congress today.

Rep. Francis Walter, Easton, Pa. Democrat, reopened the long fight yesterday when he offered the resolution for adoption by both houses and declared it to be "the sense of congress" that the game shall be played at Philadelphia and that all proceeds shall be given to the United Service Organizations.

The game has been scheduled for Nov. 27 at West Point, Michie Stadium seats approximately 12,000 while Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium holds more than 100,000. A capacity crowd at Philadelphia would net approximately $400,000.

The controversy over selection of a site for the game has been raging intermittently for months, with Sen. Moorer (D-N. Y.) and John B. Kelly, U. S. director of recreation, having asked that it be scheduled in one of the east's major stadiums.

Until last year when the game was transferred to Annapolis because of wartime transportation conditions, the traditional battle had been played at Philadelphia for several years.

BOWLING SCORES

Industrial League

The Forge Shop dumped the Paramount Furniture four points, just what all the other teams have failed to do and for the first time this year they have had their lead cut down to within striking distance to be over come by the Bab's Barbers. Zuerli's 548 and Cosmano's 545 led the scoring for the winners and for the Paramount with Thomas' 212-570 led the scoring.

Bab's Barbers, with Bob Check turning in games of 199-216-215 and a 630 total, also high for the evening, and the Barbers setting a new team game high of 998 and missing high team total by one pin with 2829, took four points from the cellar team, the Butter Krusts. Harold Clepper's 603 does the bakers no good.

United Cigar Store, paced by Walsh's 215-528 and Ryberg's 226-515 led the winners to four points from the Heat Treat. Randinelli's 528 led the losers.

Kinnear's topped the Crossetts for three points on Squig's 222-528 and Fielding's 211-566 while Dr. J. Giunta's 225-558 led the losers.

Art Pettitt, who last week scored three consecutive games of 168 each, last evening started his match with two more games of 168 each, making a total of five consecutive games of 168 in league bowling. His last game turned in 148. Quite an oddity for the local lanes.

Girl Coach Is Not Too Badly Discouraged

Salina, Nov. 17.—(P)—Pauline Rugh, former Penn State co-ed and the first woman coach of a western Pennsylvania high school football team, enjoyed her gridiron work at the Bell Township school even if her boys lost all eight of their games.

In an interview she explained she understood few coaches would consider such a season a successful one, but added "winning isn't everything."

"I got a lot out of the job and I am also pretty sure the boys did," she added. "They took everything in good spirit and never once forgot I was a girl."

Miss Rugh's biggest thrill of course came in the second game of the season with Ligonier, when her team led 7 to 0 at half-time. They had dropped their opening one, but added "winning isn't everything."

The comedy coach had high praise for the men who helped her by demonstrating tackling, blocking, punting and running for the youngsters. She outlined the plays herself, however, after taking a few instructions from Penn State Coach Bob Higgins.

About next year, plans right now are indefinite, she said. But she hopes to have another trial.

DOG DAYS—$10 EACH

Twin Falls, Idaho.—F. L. Stewart wants $882 damages for injuries he says his hunting dog received when it was struck by a truck. His claims:

Hospital bill, $25; travel expense, $20; cost of hunting the dog two days after accident, $14; loss during hunting season, 20 days at $10 a day, $200; expense for being "nurse maid during convalescence," $25.

"His teeth are all broken," Stewart said, "and I'm listing this last amount as general damage, $200."

SUNOCO GIVES AID TO AUTOS

"I'm not a weather prognosticator," says Mr. D. B. Blackham, the Sun Oil Company's local district manager, "but even at this I'm predicting that this winter is going to be tough for the average motorist unless he starts taking the best of care of his car and never stops until warm weather is here again."

"Let me tell you why. First, according to the latest reports, some types of anti-freeze will not be available this winter, and other types are likely to be scarce, hence, probably, we'll all have more battery trouble than ever before. Most of us have not been driving enough to keep our batteries fully charged and it has been estimated that even the fully charged battery can lose as much as half of its energy at below zero as compared to the average summer day. And finally, our cars are a year older than they were last winter and this means another year's wear and tear must be compensated for."

"Yes, last winter was bad enough. Why do you know that last winter, the American Automobile Association's figures show more than three times as many service calls as in 1941 for frozen cars? Still, there's one sure way to avoid a lot of grief, and that is to take advantage of the Jack Frost Service offered by Sunoco's A to Z Car Saver dealers."

"Briefly, this service does everything it can to winterize the entire car. It is built around a system that checks the car from A to Z. The cooling system is checked for anti-freeze, the battery for water and power, the tires for small defects, the running gear chassis every part of the car is inspected to help stop trouble before it starts."

"As a matter of fact, there are some features in this Jack Frost Service as rendered by Sunoco A to Z Car Saver dealers which cannot be obtained in any other service, and so far as I know, this service is as complete as its name, and undoubtedly will help make

Letters Are Awarded Men Of Grid Squad

Announcement has been made that letters will be awarded by the High School Athletic Association to 14 for outstanding work during the past season on the football field. The Dragons this year won seven and lost four games but lost only one on the home grounds and that to Academy, of Erie, but dropped three games off the home range.

Youngville, Oil City, Corry, Johnstown, Franklin and Falconer were taken by substantial scores but Erie Academy, Jamestown, Titusville and Ridgway proved too tough for the local lads. However it is said that a little overconfidence cost a couple of the pastimes.

In the group winning letters are four who will return next year, Charles Adams, Mac Sirriani, Jay White and Larry Zobrest. These men were all outstanding on the team this past season, Sirriani being a standout and Zobrest a tough heavy map who could be counted on at all stages of the game while White and Adams were always in the game.

Those who will receive letters at some future Assembly in the High School in addition to the four named above are: Gust Arrigo (now in U. S. Service), Fred Beyer, Richard Black, Richard Carlson, Lawrence Daley, Charles McLean, Wayne Schneider, John Snyder, Gerald Vesling.

Cornell Loses Six Grid Men

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(P)—Cornell hopes of giving Penn a battle in their annual Thanksgiving Day clash at Philadelphia received a rude jolt with the announcement that six players, two of them regulars, have been lost through scholastic ineligibility.

The two starters are Grant Ellis, a guard who was a Penn frosh last year, and end Murdo MacDonald. Also lost are Charles Davidson, a tackle reserve, and quarterback Morton Rauff, end Bob Coll and wingback Alex Drogin.

They are navy and marine trainees.

Bainbridge Commodores May Be Denied Top Bill on Grid

Bainbridge, Md., Nov. 17.—(P)—They may draw aside the curtain yet on that pile driver Bainbridge Naval Training football team, but trying to grab top Broadway billing for the class Commodores has been as difficult as attempting a tight wire act with a broken leg.

Undeclared in seven games, and with one of the best scoring, offensive, defensive and passing records in the nation, Bainbridge announced today it was "definitely interested" in playing a war bond game in New York.

Bainbridge's roster would make any professional league coach completely happy, yet the Navy's ruling that trainee teams must play in their own district has stymied the Commodores' claim for grid greatness.

Lieut. Ralph H. Plumb of Bainbridge athletic office said he had asked for more information on the New York game following reports the opponent might be the Sampson Navy Club, but added the treasury department would have to get Navy Department sanction for the Commodores to leave their district.

Ex-college and professional stars that sparkle in Bainbridge's lineup have run up 313 points, their goal line has been crossed for only 7 points, and Coach Joe Maniaci says he's willing to play anyone, anywhere, any time for marbles or nothing.

Maniaci, a star at Fordham and later with the Chicago Bears, has employed the T formation with great success, and his array of flashy backs and ends has scored almost at will on nearly every opponent.

They include Bill De Correvont, Northwestern; Harvey Johnson, All-Southern fullback with William and Mary, who is now the east's leading scorer; Hilliard Cheatham of Auburn, a great passer and field general; Don Durdan of Oregon State, who helped beat Duke in the Durham Rose Bowl two years ago; and Charlie Justice, who came straight from Asheville, N. C., high school to become one of the most talked of rookie half-backs in years.

More Americans died from influenza and pneumonia during the epidemics of 1918-20 than were killed in World War I.

Leros Capitulates To Nazis

After a Heavy Bombarding

(From Page One)

"The Japanese have suffered enough damage to important fleet units to give them cause for serious consideration of abandoning the base (Rabaul) as too hot to handle."

Gen. MacArthur said his airmen sank an 8,000-ton cargo ship and damaged another at Rabaul and caused the beaching of a 9,000-tonner on New Ireland. They destroyed 20 to 26 planes which raided Allied positions in the Ramu and Marikham valley of New Guinea.

A spokesman for the general said his forces and material were insufficient for a large-scale offensive. He said MacArthur "has something less than 5 per cent of American military resources" (perhaps fewer than 400,000 of the 8,000,000 American troops under arms.) The percentage of air resources "are even smaller."

METZGER-WRIGHT

Late A.P. War Bulletins

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON — Although American consumers are riding a record high wave of spending, they are socking into savings billions of dollars more than they ever saved in the history of this rich country.

The Department of Commerce estimates that the savings of individuals this year will run close to 36 billion dollars. (Income for 1943 is figured at 126 billions and consumer expenditures at 90 billions.) Individual savings amounted to 26.9 billions in 1942 and 13.6 billions in 1941.

Never before 1941 did the annual savings exceed 10 billions. The average for the previous decade was less than 5 billions.

Reserve Purchasing Power

Government economists figure that from 35 to 45 billion dollars in individuals' savings of currency, bank deposits and government bonds are owned by consumers with incomes of less than $10,000 a year. Since the below-$10,000 group constitutes the bulk of the market for goods and services, these savings provide a huge reservoir of purchasing power in addition to income earned after the war.

This reservoir can turn out to be either a powerful bulwark for postwar prosperity or a powder keg of inflation. If business is able to expand production and keep employment levels fairly high after the war, this reservoir of purchasing power can benefit consumers as well as producers. The resulting wages and other income payments to consumers would provide buying power for a large volume of goods without dipping heavily into savings.

There is danger, however, that because of these expendable reserves the over-all demand for goods will exceed the supply—possibly starting a spiral of runaway prices which would mean a serious inflation. Therefore, business and government authorities consider it vitally important that the change from war to civilian production be made quickly so civilians can get in sufficient quantity the goods they want most.

Why People Save

Normally, people save money for one or more of three main purposes:

1. Investment to yield a return which will supplement income from other sources.
2. Planned future spending which for various reasons cannot be made conveniently out of income.
3. "Rainy day" savings to meet emergencies which might result in loss of income or extraordinary expenses.

Economists say that the "rainy day" motive has been the most important factor in the accumulation of wartime savings. Many people fear that their jobs will not be so secure or that their present high income is too good to last in the uncertain period after the war.

Civilians, of course, will spend their money for new automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines or the replacement of other goods which have worn out during the war.

Some, however, will be hesitant about dipping deeply into their savings. The postwar optimists among the economists are counting on this Yankee caution to put the brakes on a spending spree that could lead to inflation.

Fifth Team Enters YMCA Court League

Five teams have announced their intentions of participating in the Y. M. C. A. Basketball League this season. This is one more team than was represented last year. The fifth team, which has just come into the league, is a group of younger players headed by "Leaky" Conroy and backed by Bakkers Cleaners. All of these fellows are young in years, but have had good basketball experience with other teams at various times. Two of the players, Ken Berdine and Jim Eaton played in last years league. Berdine performed with the Rock Cleaners and Eaton attached himself to the Struthers team, after the High school season was over. Eaton will do the same thing this year only transferring to the Baker outfit. The others making up this team are: Dimpis Peterson, Rocky Lewis, Spinner Johnson, and Phil Anderson.

President Nick Creola has called a special meeting of all team managers for this coming Thursday evening, Nov. 18th at 7:30 p. m. at the "Y". It is important that all managers respond as this will be the last meeting for quite some time and many things of interest and importance will be discussed.

Bookmarks Are Placed By TB Group

Persons who borrow books from the public libraries in Warren, Sheffield and Youngsville these days are finding in them new bookmarks recently presented by the Warren County Tuberculosis Society.

"While we expect the books to be returned according to the rules, we do not expect the bookmarks to be sent back. It is a case of 'finders keepers', according to those in charge.

"Each year the local tuberculosis society gives us a supply of these attractive little bookmarks. This year's are among the most attractive. Some of our patrons are making collections of these bookmarks and we have taken care of their requests first. The rest go to our book customers".

According to the scientists windshield wipers will not be needed in post-war automobiles because of a new type of glass, already in military use, which contains no silica so that neither rain nor snow, falling upon it, will obscure the vision of the driver.

is already being maintained in this small town?

Are the Y. W. and Y. M. failing to provide entertainment for the young people? Are they denied the use of the school buildings? Why is it that these places do not satisfy them? It would be interesting to know how many high school students do not have access to the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. It has occurred to me that it might be cheaper to give memberships to those who can not afford them than to support another organization to be known as a recreational center.

The welfare of our young people is worth a great deal, but can it not be promoted with what we have in the way of material and equipment and personnel. It will only be a few years until these young people will be struggling to pay taxes and will be glad if taxes can be held to a reasonable figure.

Sincerely,
Beatrice Braedly

Letters to the Editor

Warren, Pa., November 15.

Editor of the Times-Mirror
Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:

The young people of Warren, I understand, are very anxious to have an ice skating rink and a recreation center. I hope they will be successful in securing several ice rinks and in getting equipment for the playgrounds that young people can use. In connection with the latter, I hope they can arrange for police protection for the equipment, so it will not be destroyed.

For a recreation center they want a building with a large lobby, a dance hall and game rooms, etc. I believe they need a respectable place for recreation. But these ideas seem to have originated mostly in the minds of young people too young to pay taxes and older persons who are not Warren tax payers. Our main tax burden now is for the education of the children of Warren. Many tax payers thought that the beautiful school buildings, we have helped build and equip, would also serve as recreational centers for the school children. Residents of Warren are also asked to contribute large sums each year for the maintenance of two organizations, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. that have expensive equipment and a corps of workers for the entertainment of the young people.

Now Warren is being asked to build and equip and maintain another large building, a recreational center. Is this additional expense necessary? Should over-burdened tax payers be asked to assume the cost of more buildings and more salaries when so much equipment

Ordnance Section Of War Factory Is Swept by Bad Blaze

Youngsville and Warren Fire Departments Aid Factory Firemen In Battling Flames

LOSS IN THOUSANDS

Fire starting Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock in one of the machine shops of the National Forge and Ordnance Company, at Irvine, for a time threatened the entire plant. The fire started through the bursting of a high pressure oil line and sprayed the oil over electric motors which ignited it. The fire spread with great rapidity and the fire fighting forces of the company went into action. Calls were immediately made for the Youngsville and Warren departments and both responded.

The Warren department sent Engine Company No. 2 and the Youngsville department sent Chief Douglas Kropf and Hoseman Moore. The Youngsville Company turned out with a truck and crew of men. Smoke masks were taken from the Warren Department but they were not needed.

When the firemen arrived the flames were roaring and the fire looked most serious. Seven lines of hose were put into play and the pumps of Warren and Youngsville were both pressed into play. The Irvine Company some time ago installed a new high pressure water system and it came into full use yesterday there being plenty of water for use in battling the flames.

The interior of the burning structure was smoke filled for a time but this gradually cleared and the firemen moved in getting to the base of the flames. The structure was a new addition recently erected.

After about an hour's hard work the flames were knocked down but the firemen remained on the job until about 8 o'clock cooling down the ruins.

Inquiry of plant officials elicited the information that the work of clearing up the debris was started immediately and that the work done in this department has been transferred to another department so that a minimum of delay in turning out the product of the company will be experienced. The work of making plans for the rebuilding of the burned structure was started last night and it will be carried forward with all speed.

Officials of the company were and in their praise of the work done by the men in combatting the fire which was one of the most stubborn ever experienced at the plant moved with quickness and precision and the men and equipment from Youngsville and Warren afforded splendid service and the officials are most grateful for the job accomplished.

Smoke from the fire could be seen in Warren as it rolled up over the hills between this city and Irvine. (Turn to Page Seven)

Auxiliary Launches Campaign To Buy Ambulance Planes

At Tuesday night's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, the county's quota for War Bonds was announced as $40,000. The campaign having been opened on November 11 and to continue through December 16.

It will be recalled that in the buy a submarine campaign conducted by the Pennsylvania American Legion Auxiliary last year, Warren county's quota was set for $146.30 and was exceeded by $2,428.70 for a grand total of $2,575.

Progress was also reported at a meeting on the coupon collection, which is used to further purchase of club mobile units for ever service.

BULLETINS

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—Members of the New York Yankees baseball club, winners of the 1943 World Series, received $204,962.41 and the defeated St. Louis Cardinals $156,641.61 as their share of the total receipts of the five game series this fall, Commissioner K. M. Landis announced today.

Algiers, Nov. 17.—(P)—A "satisfactory" conference with the French committee of National Liberation and another meeting with high Allied officers, Gen. Henri Giraud withdrew today, for a period of at least two weeks, his resignation as commander-in-chief of French armed forces.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, met with coal operators today to negotiate for a wage agreement under which miners would work after the government returns the mines to their owners. A large group of operators sat down around a conference table at the interior department with Lewis and a committee of UMW officials.

Chungking, Nov. 17.—(P)—Liberator bombers of the U. S. 14th air force bombed shipping and the Kowloon dock area at Hongkong Monday night, scoring many hits on the target, a communiqué from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

(The Tokyo radio reported yesterday that Hongkong had been bombed the previous night but sought to minimize the results.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—In an effort to slow current heavy marketing of hogs, the War Food Administration today lifted for 90 days the restrictions on the number of pounds of home-slaughtered pork and lard that may be sold or given to persons not living on the farmer's property.

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—(P)—An army doctor declared today that British reportedly were contemplating a plan to allow convalescent soldiers to leave hospitals for short periods daily to work in war industries, but Army Surgeon General Norman I. Kirk said "that isn't a part of our prescription" for American soldiers.

London, Nov. 17.—(P)—Reuters, in a Zurich dispatch, said today that Bulgarian Foreign Minister Shishmanov had flown to Budapest to discuss the possibilities of joint peace action with Hungary.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—(P)—The navy set aside its usual rule of secrecy to announce the commissioning today of the Aircraft Carrier Bataan, which was launched. (Turn to Page Seven)

SMOKING IN CHAIR ENDS IN HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—(P)—Mrs. Rose Gannon, 25, wife of a sailor and mother of three small children, was burned critically today when she dozed off in a chair while smoking a cigarette, after returning from work on a night shift in a war plant. She was taken to a hospital after running several blocks to the home of relatives.

PROJECT FOR FLOOD CONTROL FINISHED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17.—(P)—Only a few finishing touches remain to be done and the $8,000,000 government project to remove the flood menace from off-flooded Johnstown will be complete.

Col. Gilbert B. Van Wilkes, in charge of the district office of the U. S. Army engineers, announced last night he plans to make a final inspection tour of the channel improvement project "soon."

The project, authorized after the disastrous St. Patrick's Day inundation of 1936, is designed to highball any flood waters past the area.

In just one year the Red Army has surged back from Stalingrad and the Caucasus to a point halfway toward the goal of Berlin. With large numbers of German troops knocked out of the fighting, the remaining half of the battle may be easier, but Nazi defense lines within Poland and Germany proper are shorter and stiffer.

SUBSIDIES ARE LICKED SAY SOME LEADERS

Battle on Rollbacks Has Brought Consumers and Producers Into Headlong Collisions

PRICES TO RISE

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Outnumbered and outmaneuvered, supporters of the administration's food subsidy program conceded privately today that they are licked in the house, but counted on mustering sufficient strength to sustain an anticipated veto.

The already hot argument over the price rollback method of combating inflation will roll to an even higher pitch when the house begins two days of general debate tomorrow on a double-barreled bill to extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation and to outlaw consumer subsidies.

The battle over the subsidy question drew representatives from consumer and producer areas into headlong collision, with both groups maintaining that the stand taken by the other will release the tide of wartime inflation.

Opposed to the subsidy program and determined to permit prices of agriculture products to rise to what they term "their natural level at the market place" were nearly all of the Republicans plus a substantial bloc of Democratic lawmakers from farm states.

On the other side were administration stalwarts and legislators from districts "industrial and urban areas. They contend that increased food prices will force higher wages and shatter the "hold-the-line" program.

It was the theme broadcast over the radio last night by Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who (Turn to Page Seven)

Pittsburgh Has Two Alarm Fire

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17.—(P)—Damage estimated by Fire Chief William H. Davis at $15,000 was caused last night by a three-alarm fire that destroyed a large stock of rationed foods in the Hermes Importing Company building.

Nicholas Hermes, one of the proprietors, said $90,000 worth of food, cheese, was in the three-story brick building. Firemen saved a considerable portion of the stock. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Fall of Rabaul Nearing As Loss of Jap Ships Mounts

By HAMILTON W. FARON

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—A climax in the campaign for Rabaul, once powerful Japanese base in the South Pacific, appeared near today—dangerously near for the enemy.

This was emphasized by a naval spokesman who told of mounting damage to Japanese ships and planes in the Rabaul area, and asserted:

"The Japanese have suffered enough damage to important fleet units to give them cause for serious consideration of abandoning the base as too hot to handle."

His statement, made after he reported the destruction of 102 enemy planes in the last six days, and the battering of surface units in the Rabaul area, tied in closely with a previous assertion by Secretary of the Navy Knox that there is a possibility the Japanese might in time evacuate Rabaul.

For weeks Allied bombers have hammered incessantly at the enemy stronghold on New Britain island northwest of the Solomons.

They have sent ship after ship to the bottom of the vast harbor, and some of those wrecks undoubtedly are hampering the movement of enemy reinforcements and supplies.

GOP Women Raid Test In Convention The State Stirs Win Praise Action Here

State President Says They Were First to Recognize Better Relation Need

URGE WOMEN'S VOTE ON U. S. ARMY ORDER

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—(P)—The Pennsylvania council of Republican Women was the first in the nation to "help build better international relations by sponsoring successfully a so-called peace resolution," Mrs. John Y. Huber of Havertown, council president and delegate to the convention, said today. Today delegates to the council's 21st convention.

Through 11 state-wide conferences, Mrs. Huber said in her prepared president's message, "we fulfilled the purpose of our organization—which is to turn political education into political activity and become leaders in meeting home front problems."

With the 60 per cent vote which women are expected to cast in the 1944 presidential election as their objective, the Republican women were told last night by Mrs. George E. Lanade of Williamsport, a vice-president, that the Pennsylvania women comprise "a powerful potential group in the political picture—if they will assume responsibility."

Emphasizing the militant spirit of the convention in seeking further representation in government for women, Helen Elizabeth Brown, president of the women's bar association of Baltimore, told delegates that Republican women "ought to demand that a woman be nominated for the vice-presidency."

"Our democratic form of government lacks the benefit of the balance and wisdom that women can bring to it," she said. "Not one woman had a voice in bringing about this war or any event leading up to it, yet women and their children are paying the penalty."

IS GIVEN AWARD

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 17.—(P)—Coast Guardsman Richard L. Buchelt, of St. Marys, Pa., has been awarded the Purple Heart in recognition of wounds received during the invasion of North Africa. Bushelt, a patient at the Norfolk marine hospital, was strafed by German planes while acting as coxswain of a landing boat. He was severely wounded in the chest, right leg and left ankle.

WARDENS AND OTHER PROTECTIVE SERVICES TURN OUT BUT ARE JUST A LITTLE SLOW

Warren had another air raid test this morning, and perhaps due to the fact that many had an idea that tests were "out" the response was not quite as snappy as in the past. The blue alert came at 10:39 and the all-clear came at 11:02. The test was ordered by the Third Service Command Headquarters and it was part of a drill in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

The alert was ordered by the First Army Command in New York and the other Commands responded.

There was no signal between the blue and the all-clear here. Over the state reports were that much confusion resulted due to a mix-up in the signals. The time of the test in the other states was earlier than for Pennsylvania.

In spite of the surprise alert the air wardens and auxiliary police got on the job quickly and the Central Control Staff made good time in getting to their places.

Reports from outside the Borough were that the alert was observed in most places in a fair manner.

It's Legal To Peek In Raid

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—(P)—It's perfectly legal to go out in your back yard during a real or practice air raid to peer into the sky, the state defense council said today—but it's definitely not the wise thing to do.

Clarifying a regulation headed "pedestrians" which says all persons except authorized workers must take shelter when the raid signal sounds, Director Ralph Cooper Hutchinson explained:

"Commanders, wardens and auxiliary police will not consider persons on their own premises to be pedestrians. Wardens and auxiliary police will advise persons outside of shelter while on private premises, to take shelter, but will in no case compel them to do so."

VOTE FUNDS FOR LIQUOR INVESTIGATION

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Voted $10,000 for an investigation of the current liquor situation, a senate subcommittee organized today to determine where the old family high-octane brands have gone and when they'll be back.

The curious formulae of some of the new or victory model giggles likewise will come under senatorial scrutiny.

Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.), accepting assignment on the five-man committee, expressed belief that the distribution and sale of whiskey has entered a "rocketing phase." Senator Elmer homas, whose home town, Medicine Park, Okla., is as dry as the congressional record, went further.

"It's already one of the most vicious rackets in America," he asserted.

"Unless some changes are made it will lead to another attempt at national prohibition—on the theory the people can get more and better liquor under prohibition than they can now."

Thomas, who spoke as an individual senator and not as a member of the investigating group, said he had been reliably informed that what little store-bought liquor is now obtainable assays very low in legitimate aged-in-the-wood whiskey.

"It isn't whiskey at all," he said "it's just a mixture of junk containing as little as 23 percent of real whiskey." The rest just alcohol and some sort of coloring matter.

"Whether or not the Office of Price Administration knows it, they are being handled by some of the liquor interests to the detriment of the public and the benefit of the nonopoly."

Leros Capitulates To Nazis After A Heavy Bombarding

Men and Guns Taken When Island Finally Gives In—Russians Surround Gomel With Its Fall Near

COUNTER-ATTACKS ARE LAUNCHED BY HUNS

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

Russian siege guns bombarded outflanked Gomel today and German broadcasts forecast a fresh Nazi retreat from the Dnieper bend where they said a half million Red troops were attacking violently.

The Germans struck heavily and repeatedly at the lower flank of the great Kiev bulge, particularly in the Fastov and Zhitomir sectors, in actions which appeared aimed at protecting the withdrawal of their divisions to the south.

For their part, the Russians in the western Ukraine applied increased pressure from three sides of the railway junction of Korosten where lines from Kiev, Warsaw, Leningrad and Odessa converge. Weather, as well as the Germans, countered the Russian advance.

Around 6,000 Germans fell. Sixty Ukrainian towns were captured. Ten strong points shielding Gomel were reduced. The Germans "sustained tremendous losses in manpower and equipment," the Russians said officially at midnight. Threatened Rumania was said to have completed plans to evacuate Bucharest, the capital, and the Morocco radio said all important documents had been moved to the hinterland.

The Germans finally captured Leros, important Dodecanese island in the Aegean. The Germans said they captured 3,000 British and 5,000 Italian troops and 130 guns.

The island has a fine harbor usable as a naval and submarine base and also airfields. Far removed from nearby Allied bases and airfields, the British Middle East command appear to have gambled against strong German reaction and lost. The recapture of Leros will be more valuable to Germany for propaganda than military purposes, and their victory likely will have its effect upon neutral Turkey.

The garrison capitulated last night after the Germans landed reinforcements and subjected the Allies to "an overwhelming air bombardment," a Cairo communiqué said.

Miserable weather curtailed fighting in central Italy. Americans regained some "lost ground north of Venafro."

American bombers soared above the snowstorms to attack airfields in south France near Marseille in the natural invasion avenue formed by the Rhone valley. The targets were Istres Le Tube and Salon. Other U. S. aircraft again attacked Eleusis airfield near Athens and the Yugoslav harbor at Sib-enik. Three Allied planes and 13 Germans were shot down.

Flying from Britain, Mosquito bombers attacked western Germany without loss. The flights followed daylight smashes by American Fortresses and Liberators at Norwegian chemical works and a power station at Rjukan and a molybdenum mine at Knaoben. The bombers destroyed six Nazi planes; two were lost.

The Hungarian radio said the Mena House Hotel near the Egyptian pyramids had been prepared for an imminent meeting "between Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt." The Daily Mail of London said the heads of the three Allied powers would meet soon.

One immediate topic might be the French quarrel, culminating in the serious disturbances in Lebanon. Gen. Henri Giraud was said to have offered his resignation six times as French commander-in-chief, apparently because Gen. Charles De Gaulle refused his demands for a free hand in military operations and an agreement not to "purge" the army or appoint new generals without his consent.

A naval spokesman at Washington noting Japan's staggering sea and air losses at and around Rabaul, and the invasion of Bougainville, declared:

Task Force Moves Into Field To Capture New YM Members

Twelve companies of "service men" making up the YMCA "task force" are at work today making initial advances in the drive for 600 new and renewal members, following the opening gun meeting in the "Y" building last night.

The good attendance and the serious interest displayed by the men of the campaign organization last evening promises well for the success of the 1943 "Call to Membership."

Chief-of-Staff W. Howard Alexander presided and expressed in behalf of the board of directors his appreciation of the fine spirit of the Y's friends which has made the campaign organization possible. Rev. Harold C. Warren, pastor of the First Presbyterian Templeton church, opened the meeting with prayer.

Chief Aide Ralph H. Wagner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave the "fighters" their ammunition: Instructions, suggestions and information. The distribution and selection of renewal and new prospect cards followed. A job which wound up the evening's program. A special bonus was announced for all renewals turned in at the "Y" office by 6 p. m. Thursday, and these and all others secured at the mid-way point will be reported at a meeting Friday night at 9 p. m.

Three companies were recognized last night for perfect attendance at the opener. They were the teams captained by G. A. Carlson, George S. Frantz and Alan H. Templeton

The Army engineers were on the job at Pesco, Italy, near Salerno, when Lieut. Gen. Mark W.
 Clark's invaders landed on Hitler's Fortress Europa. Here you see a pontoon dock, where one of our big landing craft is unloading, laid right to the beach. Some idea of the size of these new landing boats built for invasions such as that of Italy can be made by comparing it with the trucks that have been swarming out of its giant maw. Your War Bond purchases helped to build such landing craft and these trucks.

Company B Desires Recruits to Make Company Full Strength

According to word received from Harrisburg, the 4th Regiment of the Pennsylvania State Guards will be officially set up December 1. Battalion headquarters for the companies to be organized at Warren, Kane and Bradford will be established at Warren with Maj. Arthur P. Dickinson commanding the battalion, and Capt. James V. Scallise as commanding officer of Co. I, to be formed at Warren.

Since the announcement of the formation of the new regiment enlistments have been received to such an extent at Kane and Bradford that from present indications it would appear that these two cities will have their companies fully organized by the time the transfers take place.

Capt. Scallise reports that while enlistments at Warren for Co. I have been coming in at the rate of three and more each drill night, yet in view of the number of honorable discharges granted those joining the regular armed forces, the number is still insufficient to form a full company. More men are urgently needed to join Co. I, so that when December 1st rolls around, a full company will be in existence to carry on the glorious military traditions of the old "Co. I."

In order to facilitate enlistments in the State Guards, enlisting officers will be on duty at the State Armory at Warren on Sunday afternoon, Monday and Tuesday evenings.

New enlistments for the week include: Dominic A. Scalise of 11 E. Wayne St.; Ed. T. Zewatzky of 108 Market St.; and Ernest T. Toner of R. D. 3 Warren. Mr. Zewatzky had previously served over two years in the former Pennsylvania National Guards and had served with the regular U. S. Army, 109 Field Artillery, for a period during World War II when he was honorably discharged on a medical discharge.

Those between the ages of 17 and 50 are eligible to enlist, and under the present policy of the U. S. Army, all those 17 years old and those married men who will in all probabilities be inducted into service within the next six months or a year are urged to join promptly so as to receive as much basic training as possible before induction. The experience of those of Co. B who were inducted into the Army or enlisted in the Navy or Marine Corps seems to indicate that the preliminary training is sufficiently extensive to warrant giving a rating to the Guardsmen.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Motz, of Jackson Run, with three sons in the armed forces, have received word of the safe arrival in England of Paul H. Motz, sergeant technician fourth grade, first to go overseas. Cpl. Harold Motz is located at Fort Dix, N. J., and Pvt. Leroy C. Motz has been transferred from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to Fargo, N. D., for an eight weeks course in mechanics school.

Mrs. Vivian Linborg, of Youngsville, has received word that her husband, Pvt. Carl E. Linborg, who has been stationed at Miami Beach, Fla., has finished his basic training and is now attending an army administration school at Fargo, N. D.

Robert J. Stuart, seaman second class, who has completed his boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., is spending a nine-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott C. Stuart, Sugar Grove.

Huge new classes of young Americans who will carry block busters to Berlin and Tokyo, just graduated from the West Texas Bombardier Triangle, include John H. Rosequist, of Tidouite, a nephew of Mrs. C. G. Anderson, 30 Grant street, who completed the Midland Field study.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vavala, 703 West Fifth avenue, have received word that their son, Samuel, has arrived at Camp Pendleton, Va., to train for the coast artillery.

After enjoying a 15-day furlough at home in Pleasant township, Pfc. Junior Preston Briggs has returned to Camp Shelby, Miss., to resume his duties as a cook. Before coming home he received his diploma as first cook in the baker's and cook's school.

Wallace M. Egger, son of Paul Egger, of Pleasant township, has enlisted for the navy and goes to Sampson, N. Y., for his basic training.

Nick J. Sversko, seaman first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sversko, Sheffield, is home on 15-day leave from active duty in the Atlantic and from action in the Mediterranean.

Sgt. Milo T. Dowd, stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla., with the amphibian command, is home on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Harry Reynolds, at Kinzua.

Mr. and Mrs. Boris Waxman, Verbeck street, have had word from their son, Pfc. Jerry Waxman, that he has been moved from Salt Lake City, Utah, to Pueblo, Colo., where he is doing radio mechanics with a bombing squadron. He writes that he would like to hear from friends at home or other boys in the service.

Pvt. F. Everett Borg, former photographer in Warren, is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. in the engineering corps.

Sylvania Electric Products Company at a meeting held Tuesday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the outstanding common stock of the company as well as an extra 25 cents the share on the common. Both dividends are to be paid on December 20, 1943, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 9, 1943.

PLAN MEMORIAL

At a well attended meeting of Warren Lodge, No. 223, B. P. O. Elks, held last evening, a class of candidates was initiated and plans were furthered for the annual memorial service to be held at 3 p. m. Sunday, December 5. The Rt. Rev. E. Pinkney Wirth, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Erie, will return to deliver the memorial address. Other program details are being worked out and will be announced later. A social time and lunch followed the meeting.

CAR ON FIRE

Due to the boiling over of a radiator filled with an anti-freeze solution an automobile owned by C. P. Hanson caught fire on Pennsylvania avenue near Hickory street last evening at 8:43. The emergency truck from the Central fire station answered the alarm. The wiring was damaged to some extent as the insulation was burned off. The firemen also investigated smoke in the Sigel Building yesterday. About 5 o'clock the department was called to the home of C. C. Winans, 104 Buchanan street, where gas was leaking from an electric refrigerator. The machine was carried out to a side porch by the firemen.

Mother Won Stripe As WAC Before Son Won His

An item appearing in "The Military News" will be of interest to many Warren friends of Mrs. M. Irene Davenport, native of Warren and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lesser, Cobham Park Road. The article follows:

"Pvt. James G. Davenport came down to Camp Robinson from Camp Gruber, Okla., last week to pay off a $25 wager—and he was very happy about the whole thing. "The wager was in the form of a $25 War Bond and the winner of the little bet was Private Davenport's mother, Pfc. M. Irene Davenport, former director of public welfare in Lancaster county, Va., now an instructor in the Special Training Detachment of the 1839th Unit, 8th Service Command."

"Their meeting at the Reception Center at Camp Robinson was the first time they had seen each other since they both took the oath in the Service March 14 in Richmond, Va. And thereon hangs the story of Private Davenport's lost wager."

"When they were both inducted they wagered as to who would get a stripe first. Mother won. "Pfc. Davenport, who enlisted in the WAAC, is now a member of the WAC. Both she and her son embarked for their present stations on the same day. Pfc. Davenport from the WAC Training Branch at Conway, Ark., and Private Davenport from Desert Maneuvers. Neither had any idea where they would be stationed, or that they would be so close together. "Pfc. Davenport, who was director of public welfare in Lancaster county, Va., for seven years before her enlistment, has another son, John H. Davenport, who enlisted immediately after Pearl Harbor and who is now in preliminary Aviation Cadet training at Carlisle, Pa."

Turkeys Not Too Expensive For Holiday

A list of 180 cents-per-pound ceiling prices for turkeys in November and December has been mailed by the price panel of the Warren Ration Board to all local dealers and township stores in this region. The board has extra copies for any seller who did not receive them.

The list is about the most complete pricing schedule that has ever been issued for fowl. It lists six classifications of turkeys, and six ways in which turkeys are sold, and establishes ceiling prices on all these types for the wholesaler, the four groups of retailers and also for the producer who sells to the consumer.

Persons who buy turkey are urged by OPA to study the list so they know what ceilings apply to the birds they are buying. The six classifications are: young light turkey, young medium turkey, young heavy turkey, old light, medium and heavy. The methods of selling are: live, dressed, kosher-killed, kosher dressed and plucked, drawn and frozen eviscerated. The list defines everything, except what is an old turkey and what is a young one. Evidently that is left up to the buyer.

A medium drawn turkey is defined as one weighing 13 to 16½ pounds fully drawn. Since many turkeys bought here fall into this group, The Times-Mirror quotes some of the ceilings affecting this bird, supposing it was young.

The drawn wholesale price is 54c a pound; to the consumer who buys from a small store, the bird cost no more than 63c a pound, which is also the highest price the farmer can charge if he sells direct to the consumer; in a big chain store the ceiling is 62c a pound. Frozen, fully drawn birds are higher, from 57c wholesale to 67c retail. These prices are the highest in all the 180.

The lowest retail price quoted is 38c a pound, for an old heavy turkey sold by producer to consumer. It's all very complicated, but if anyone charges you more than 63c a pound for a turkey, you're being bilked—unless that turkey happens to be a quick-frozen bird.

November Gift Mailing Does Not Mean Mailing Nov. 30

The First and Second Assistant Postmasters have issued to all postmasters over the nation a piece of publicity on early mailing of Christmas gifts that should not be taken lightly by the public. Due to the many gifts to be handled this year early mailing is a necessity and not a slogan. The publicity requested by the department is as follows:

Christmas Mails
"Mail in November" does not mean "Mail on November 30". Reports from target post offices indicate that little Christmas mail has been started on its way by the public, although the press, radio, and business concerns are cooperating splendidly in spreading the word that November mailings are necessary this year if deliveries are to be made on time. While postal officials anticipated that their advice to the public to "Mail in November" would bring no very heavy mailings until about November 15, it was hoped that a fair volume would be received during the first 2 weeks of the month.

Mailing of a huge volume of gifts and cards in the last 2 or 3 days of November will result in serious congestion in post offices and transferred facilities, with consequent delays. The mailings should be spread over a longer period to avoid a last-minute jam and to assure delivery by Christmas.

Postal officials advise that all who can possibly do so shall mail their gifts at once and mark them "Do Not Open Until Christmas." If gifts are mailed during November, it is quite probable that some parcels and cards will be delivered rather early; this can do no harm. But if gifts are mailed late, it is certain that many of them will arrive after December 25; and this will result in disappointment both for civilians and for members of the armed forces who are still in the country.

Should the heavy mailings continue into December, it will be impossible to give any assurance of delivery by Christmas. Transportation lines are heavily burdened with war materials and personnel, and these must have preference over Christmas gifts when facilities are limited. Gifts cannot be permitted to interfere with the transportation of arms and supplies to our fighting forces.

The solution? MAIL NOW.

PLAN THIS FALL TO REDUCE SOIL EROSION

Prevention of soil erosion may seem like an untimely topic after a season of drought. However, most farmers know what damage heavy rains can cause in gullies washed in the fields and the best soil carved off as muddy water. County Agent O. C. Tritt suggests that forethought and planning can help to avoid these losses.

He reports that the simplest and most satisfactory erosion control is obtained in the laying out of washy slopes into strips on the contour so that all the rows are approximately level and do not lead the water into depressions where gullies can form. If the water does not start to run off so quickly, more of it soaks into the ground where crops can use it.

Between each pair of plowed strips there should be a strip of equal width in sod or winter grain. Sod not only will not wash, but it checks the water which may run off the plowed strip above and spreads it so that little damage is done.

Beginners with contour farming at first think the strips look a little queer, but when they get used to them they find many advantages in addition to reduced washing. For one thing, all farming operations are done on the level; no grading to pull up and down, and less horsepower and gear-shifting required. By throwing several fields together and running the strips across them, one can often make long rounds which are more economical to operate.

Extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College explain that the laying out of strips requires some planning in the matter of rotations and other operations. They feel that the job should be done as nearly right as practical at the start. That means the right width of strip and use of a level to get started on the true contour.

Any farmer who has an erosion problem can get extension circulars which give practical solutions. These are available at the County Agricultural Extension office in Warren. Additional help and guidance in planning and laying out contour strips can be gotten from County Agent O. C. Tritt.

FINAL ASSEMBLY
By E. H. LEFTWICH

YESTERDAY: Kitty Ambrose convinces Pete Neil that as long as the air force rejected him he might as well help build planes. She tells him he can get a job at Melvin Aircraft, where she works.

Chapter 3

H. C. ROLLINS, personnel manager for Melvin Aircraft, tilted back in his chair, scratched his ear, waved his attractive secretary out of the room and grinned at Pete Neil who sat facing him across the big desk. "Universal Motors, eh?" Rollins looked at the paper slip in his hand which had been sent in from the outer office. "Petty big outfit you've been working for."

"Well, it's not the biggest," Pete inched his big husky six-foot frame a bit closer to the desk. Instinctively, he liked Rollins. He was just the type of crisp young business executive Pete had expected him to be.

"I suppose you know why I'm here," Pete said. "You see I've decided that I want to work for an aircraft plant."

"I see," Rollins reached for the desk lighter and re-lit his cigar. "College?" he asked.

"Yes, State."

"Know anything about aircraft?"

"Not a great deal, but it wouldn't take me long to catch on. I think I'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"Just like that, eh?" Rollins smiled. "You know very little about ships and you think you'd like to work in Final Assembly."

"That's that ship you're building," Pete said. "I'd like to have a part in helping to make it the safest and best ship in the world." He leaned forward and looked seriously into Rollins' eyes. "My Dad was a test-pilot. He lost his life because someone was careless."

"I see." Again Rollins' cigar had gone out. He started to reach for the lighter, but picked up the paper slip instead. "I can use you, Neil, in Final Assembly, on the second shift. Of course you've done designing and know how to figure stress from your automobile experience."

"Well," Pete interrupted. "You see, I..."

"Okay, okay," Rollins broke in. "You needn't try to explain. I'm used to your type. Most engineers are that way. Especially ones out of college just long enough to realize that the world is not their oyster, modest and all that."

"But, I..."

"Save it, Neil. I'm busy, you see. No time for arguments. Do we have your application?"

"Yes, I filled it out just before I came in."

"Okay," Rollins waved his hand. "I'll look it up later. I'll have it start you as a beginner at sixty-five cents per hour, but with a little overtime you'll get fairly nice checks."

"You'll work with an engineer who's making some changes in our design."

"Pete, Mr. Rollins, I appreciate the chance, only..."

"Don't thank me, Neil. We're going to need good men and I think I know one when I see one. Hurriedly he filled out a form and handed it to Pete.

"Give this to the doctor; first door on the left. He'll look you over in ten minutes. You'll start today at 3:30 P.M. and work until 12 P.M."

They shook hands. "Thanks a lot," Pete said. "I'll give it all

I've got and I hope you'll never regret hiring me."

"I'm sure I won't," Rollins grinned. "Good luck!"

Twenty minutes later Pete had passed the routing physical examination and was on his way toward the plant entrance and the bus station. "Pierced ears, eh?" the doctor had laughed at the worried look on Pete's face. "That little trouble won't hurt your chances here at all."

He heard someone walking behind him. He turned and saw a thin pale-faced youth who hurried to his side. The stranger held out a bony hand. "I'm Lester Graham," he said. "I saw you in the Doc's office a little while ago."

"I'm Pete Neil," Pete shook Graham's hand and liked the way the long thin fingers gripped his own. "Are you going to work here?"

Graham laughed. "Some call it 'work'." He said, "I've been staying here for the past four months. I'm a first-class stock-chaser. Just came out to get my check. I was sick last week..."

He had a cold. The Doc looked me over and said I was healthy enough to go back to work. So back I go tonight."

"This was a piece of luck, Pete thought, finding a friend so soon, and best of all, one on the same shift. He decided to force his luck a bit more. "Lester," he said, "I wonder if you know a good low-priced room I can rent in town. With board."

Graham smiled pleasantly and again thrust out his hand. "Brother," he said, "Meet your new room-mate."

"Swell," Pete agreed. "And the price?"

"Oh, about eight bucks per week."

"Sold!" Pete wanted to ask one more question. "Since you're a man of parts," he said, "I wonder if you'd happen to know a girl named Kitty Ambrose?"

"I'll fire him! ... so help me ... I'll fire him!"

H. C. Rollins, red-faced and fuming, paced up and down the floor of his office with quick strides. He waved Pete's application form, which he had taken from the files a moment before, in the air, under the nose of his pretty secretary.

"But, you can't fire him," the girl, grinning, had risen from her seat near the desk. She faced Rollins, eyes sparkling with suppressed merriment. She started to speak again, but could contain herself no longer.

She burst suddenly into uncontrolled laughter, her voice ringing throughout the little room. She fell back into her chair holding her sides with both hands.

"Imagine," she choked. "Imagine the great 'H.C.' being played for a sap. Oh, it's too good to keep!"

Still laughing she rose again from her seat and stumbled toward the door, but Rollins caught her by the arm.

"No, you don't!" he hissed. "Get back in your seat, and for once in your life, be serious."

"Okay," she grinned. "But I still say you can't fire him."

"Why, not?"

"Because all new employees are given thirty days probation. You can't fire one before that unless he does something really drastic."

"DRASTIC! How in hell could it be more drastic! He lied to me. He played me for a sucker... a sap. He told me he worked for Universal Motors, when he was only a mechanic in a country garage."

"Wait," the girl interrupted. "Didn't that garage handle Universal Motors cars?"

"Well, yes I can. Obviously, he's not an engineer, so I'll just send his papers down to his foreman, with a note advising that he be put on the lowest type of 'dog-chasing.' He won't like that worth a damn, and he'll do a bum job. Then, I can fire him. Even if he does a fair job, I can fire him anyway, after thirty days, and as for you..."

"He aimed a finger at her forehead. "If you weren't such a good secretary, I'd fire you, too. You're too personal. You know too much. I'm allergic to you!"

have left this 'big-pay' job of yours long ago. There's nothing I enjoy so much as a good laugh."

Pete lay on his back, hands under his head, stretched out in the sagging double bed in the little room which he was to share with Lester Graham. He had decided to relax for a few moments while Graham had gone to the corner drug store for a pack of cigarettes. In about thirty minutes it would be time to catch the bus for the plant to begin his first night's work.

Casually he let his eyes rove over the four walls of the room which were covered with badly faded, sickly pink wall-paper and unadorned except for a poorly-executed painting representing a pair of much-too-buxom young ladies playing leap-frog or something on the banks of a lily pond. It was funny, but one of them reminded him of Mary Donnelly, back home.

A couple of cane-bottom chairs in fairly good shape and a nondescript bureau completed an inventory of the room's furnishings. Not much, but what could one expect for eight bucks? It would do until he got his first raise or pulled down some overtime. Graham seemed to be a very congenial sort of chap, and after all, he should consider himself lucky to have found such a friend and a place to live so easily.

In a few moments he would begin his career as assistant to a real aircraft engineer. Maybe this was even better than becoming a pilot. On this job he'd have a real opportunity to learn all about airplanes. He could become a pilot later, after the war, and earn big money with a background of real practical aircraft experience. Kitty had been right. There was a place for him in the aircraft industry. He mustn't think too much about Kitty... there was Mary Donnelly at home. But he wondered if he'd see her on his first night.

THE REAL HEROES

Edgar M. Mack, executive of the G. C. Murphy Company, recently received a letter from a former employee, now serving overseas on a bomber plane, which so willingly gave credit to the efforts of others that it has been circulated among the employees of all the company's stores.

The letter is from Technical Sergeant Donald J. Anderson. "We have been pretty busy over here in North Africa. At home we knew pretty well just when to expect our rushes, but over here you do nothing at all for a while, seemingly, and then all at once they get you up at two or three in the morning and away you go," he writes.

"You probably have read of how the air corps teaches team work in their bomber crews and also of different crews coming back home and telling about their missions and how tough the flak and fighters were. However, the real heroes of this war are the ground crews who work day in and day out, through all kinds of weather. The real team play is practically unheard of, and that is the team of armament, ordnance, ground crews and flight men all working together."

"We have no elaborate hangars," he continues, "and tools to work with, such as they have in the states. Every day, as regular as a clock, at 1 o'clock a breeze starts up and before long it is a regular dust storm. Dust gets into everything, engines, radios, all types of equipment. Engines are hard to get, and because of the dust, require a lot of extra work. You see the ground crews working, changing engines with parts covered with cloths, trying to keep the dust out. I have seen our ground crew get our plane in shape, working all day on it; then we went on a mission, returning in the late afternoon with a bad engine. They went right to work, working all night long, with no light except a flashlight, and the next morning the plane was ready to fly with a new engine replacing the bad one."

"Incidents like that are taken for granted," he concludes, "the boys get no medals, receive no write-ups in the papers at home, and keep right on working x x x Over here there is no such thing as a five or six day week; there is no quitting time; for these men the whistle never blows. The boys have no dances and dates as they had at home, their only thought is to keep the planes flying and they are, in my estimation, the real heroes of this war, and the team that is bringing victory to us. We, the flying crews, do go over the target; we do risk our necks, it is true, but I think it is much harder to keep going, day after day, on the—you could almost say—thankless job. Ratings for them are slow; they are composed mostly of privates, corporals and buck sergeants. Still they go on, willingly and with a smile, doing their work that makes it possible for us to strike, and strike hard, at the enemy."

"Now, when you read the list of our men in the service and see privates and corporals that seem to always remain privates and corporals, just remember that they too are doing a good job. Don't be inclined to judge the men by their grades in the service, because a lot of darn good men are doing a whale of a job and are still privates and corporals, because each squadron has only so many ratings to give. x x x Many a deserving man can rise no further because of the fact that there is no room for him. It's the same as at home; we can have only so many managers and only so many presidents."

"I hope the day will come when the people at home realize the job these boys are doing. People should be able to say, with pride, that their son or their brother is a mechanic on a ground crew or a bomb handler, or a radio mechanic. Mr. Mack, they do all the work and we get all the glory."

Equally significant with the truth of these statements and the inadequate public appreciation of the important services rendered by the privates and the members of ground crews is the honesty and sincerity with which Sgt. Anderson pays tribute to his air force colleagues. There is no place for prima donnas in the war effort. Only through team work, both at home and abroad, can we succeed.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Despite brave comments to the contrary, Democratic political circles here were shocked at results of the off-year elections.

The most stunning blow, of course, was the loss of the governorship in Kentucky. The election of Simeon S. Willis marked the fifth time in history and the first since the elections of 1927, when Republicans were riding the crest of prosperity and Coolidge, that this important border state has repudiated the Democratic party.

However, there were other important results: the huge majority Republican Joe R. Hanley piled up over William N. Haskell, who was backed both by the Democrats and the American Labor party for the New York lieutenant governorship; the failure of the once powerful Democratic Hague machine to stem the Republican tide in New Jersey; the plurality of more than 63,000 for Republican Mayor Bernard Samuel over William C. Bullitt, in Philadelphia. Where the G.O.? won only by a nostril in the 1942 elections.

WHAT does it all mean? I have talked to a dozen political observers here and the answer is almost invariably: "Nothing that hasn't been known all along."

What they intend to convey is that the Republican trend that started somewhere after the 1936 elections is still under way; that it is almost certain that in the election of a Republican House of Representatives next year and further inroads into the Democratic majority in the Senate; but that it means little in the presidential race in 1944 if the Democratic nominee is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As a matter of fact, there are a good many Republicans here who privately agree with Leon Henderson's observation: President Roosevelt will be reelected (they make the reservation, however, that only if the war is still on) but that he will have a Republican Congress. (Republican in the House and anti-administration in the Senate through the coalition of Republicans and anti-New Deal Senators).

Holding out against this view are those Republicans, principally lined up behind Wendell L. Willkie, who insist that if the war is still on, there will be all the more reason to name a Republican. Their slogan, in that event, will be: The only way to get across is to change horses in midstream.

THE election of Republican Lieutenant Governor Hanley in New York is considered here to be more important in the present political picture in that it leaves the door wide open for Thomas Dewey to be a drafted candidate.

Had Haskell been elected, Dewey would have been honored to serve out his term in the Empire state rather than turning it over to the Democrats. In spite of Dewey's declaration after the election that "I am not now and shall not be a candidate for the Republican nomination," political circles here still think that he would accept if he were called in a strong draft.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Maybe it's because these are times when the world is waiting for the sunrise and tomorrow is a lovely word, but whatever the reason we're breaking out in a rash of tomorrow titles, to wit: "Tomorrow's Harvest," "It Happened Tomorrow," "One More Tomorrow," "And New Tomorrow."

What we'll need tomorrow—is an OIT, or Office for the Identification of Tomorrow Titles....

It's scarcely a secret that Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins, try each other's nerves when working together, but "Old Acquaintance" is another proof that the combination is to the good. It's an intelligent, adult piece of work, with the two gals both giving characterizations to remember....

Bette, now making "Mr. Skeffington," is no titled lady as she was in "Elizabeth" book, for the setting has been shifted from England to America: Gramercy Park, New York, 190 per cent American. The change (as Vincent Sherman, the young director, hastens to point out) was made for purely cinematic reasons—nothing to do with the war, senatorial junkies, or anything like that.

"GAVE us a better story line and better characters for the home audience," he said. "But we expect to hear someone charge that we're anti-British in our attitude. Never can tell about such things. Feelings are so touchy now, all over...."

Linda Darnell is wishing she weren't in "Buffalo Bill." The amputated her role, that of the Indian maid in love with the plainsman, after finishing the picture. Buffalo Bill now doesn't have any Indian maid in love with him—and Linda is pouting....

Donald O'Connor, finishing his third picture and assigned three more to be finished in less than nine months, says he likes to work. "But," he told the producers, "are you sure you haven't put Henry J. Kaiser working here under a different name?"

A FEW years ago William Reinhold was sent to Arabia on a photographic mission. Reinhold got some beautiful footage, which was laid away in mothballs when RKO decided the project was too expensive. Now this same footage has caused a new movie script to change its locale.

Foreword to the first version of "International Zone" read: "North Africa, land of mystery and adventure... bloodshed and violence..." Foreword to the second version: "Arabia, the Red Sea, and the Suez Canal, all links in the first and perhaps still the most important short-cut in history. They're using Reinhold's backgrounds. The master coup is this: they've scarcely had to change the plot. This, of course, might be a commentary on movie plots in general.

Tour of Americas Is Continued By The Blue Stockings

Blue Stocking Club members held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. S. Tarbox, Fourth avenue, with Mrs. George Calderwood assisting and Miss Elly Morris, president, conducting a brief meeting.

The club study for the year was continued with Miss Mabel Abbott acting as guide to Panama and Venezuela and making this part of the cruise most unforgettable with many interesting facts from the early history of 1502 to the present.

She pointed out that of special interest today is the third set of locks at Panama Canal, built in 1914 as a war measure and constructed of the same basic natural materials as the original set of twin locks. She showed, also, that Venezuela is established as the third largest oil producing company of the world, exceeded only by the United States and Russia.

Miss Morris and Mrs. W. R. Carlin presided at the tea table which was attractively centered with yellow pompons and tapers.

The next club meeting will be held December 7 with Mrs. William E. Lutz and Mrs. R. F. Hemingway as hostesses.

DOUBLE PURPOSE OF SURPRISE PARTY
Mrs. Florence Sampson and Mrs. Anna Mae Schaeffer entertained members of their birthday club last evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Highhouse, Pleasant township, as a surprise for her birthday anniversary.

Another surprise of the evening was announcement that Vera Bonace has chosen Thursday afternoon of this week for her marriage to Pfc. Steve Petrowski, of Camp Campbell, Ky.

Both honored guests were presented gifts from the group, including the following members: Margaret Serwatka, Martha Mahood, Betty Wertman, Florence Grant, Eietta Tingwall and a guest, Margaret Highhouse.

COMMUNITY SERVICE DEPARTMENT MEETING
Attorney J. H. Alexander, speaking at Monday's meeting of Community Service Department at the Women's Club, related many interesting facts in his "Story of Stonewall". The business meeting was in charge of Chairman Dorothy Newell and announcement was made that Mrs. W. N. Hutchings will be in charge of reading a play at next Monday's meeting of Dramatic Section. To conclude, tea was served at a pretty table presided over by Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Walter Beaty.

Polio Topic of M. D. Before Medic Group

At the November meeting of the Warren County Medical Society, held Tuesday afternoon at the YWCA activities building, Dr. Fitzgerald H. Clark, of Jamestown, gave a history of the Kenny treatment for infantile paralysis and demonstrated, with the assistance of the New York state nurse Miss Wigren, the method of applying the packs which Miss Kenny uses to overcome the muscle spasm present in the early stages of polio.

This treatment has been much publicized and, for certain types of the disease, has been very effective.

Twenty-five members were in attendance. Dinner followed, with Doctors Gail K. Ridsperger, H. R. Robertson, Floyd Schuler, W. H. Shortt and R. L. Taylor as hosts.

Obituary

W. ROSS SAGER

W. Ross Sager, 9 Dartmouth street, one of the oldest and best known residents of the east side, died at the Warren General Hospital Tuesday night at 11:50 o'clock after a lingering illness. He was associated with the Warren Axe & Tool Co., for almost fifty years, having learned the axe-making business from his father who was one of the pioneers in the industry. He was born in Clyde, O., November 8, 1866, but spent most of his life in this community where he was held in high regard by a host of friends. He is survived by his wife Carrie R. Sager, a daughter Mrs. Ed. C. Lowrey, son Pfc. W. Lloyd Sager, Camp Crockett, Galveston, Tex., a grandson Edward Sager Lowrey and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Bessie Mack, Bangor, Me.; Mrs. Max Christopher, East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. M. A. Silverthorn, Warren; M. L. Sager, Buffalo, N. Y., and J. R. Sager, Parma, O.

Removal was made to the Peterson funeral home where friends may call between ten and 11 a. m., two to five and seven to nine p. m. Arrangements for the funeral will not be completed pending word from the son in the service. Friends are kindly requested to omit flowers.

FRANK C. BALDENSBERGER

Frank C. Baldensberger, 1920 Pennsylvania avenue, east, died at Warren General Hospital at 5:45 p. m. Tuesday following a long illness. He was aged 61 years.

Surviving are three sisters: Mrs. Anna Smith and Miss Eliza Baldensberger, of Warren, and Mrs. Milton Eikenburg, of Buffalo, N. Y.; two brothers, Theodore and Howard Baldensberger, both of this city.

Funeral services will be held from the family home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, followed by interment in Oakland cemetery.

LENA A. BENSON

Funeral services in memory of Lena A. Benson were held from the Leo D. Gibson Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Dr. H. A. Rinard, First Lutheran minister officiating. Committal was made in Oakland cemetery with Peter Gortido, Louis Anderson, Hartwell Willey, Frank Graziano acting as bearers.

LACY UNIT
The Lacy School PTA met last evening with a large attendance. Miss Dunkle's room won the attendance award. The president, Mrs. Kolmar, opened the meeting and group singing directed by Miss Frances Peterson followed. Members were reminded that the Community Council will meet December 9th, and a large attendance is hoped for. Announcement was made that the Home Nursing Class will begin after the first of the year and members desiring to take the course were asked to contact Mrs. Katmar at once.

The program given was in conjunction with National Education Week. Last Wednesday was visiting day in the school and it was reported that there were 126 visitors during the period.

The program given proved highly pleasing. A piano solo was given by Virginia Johnson; a talk on "How National Education Week Originated" was given by Miss Dunkle and a quartette composed of Mrs. Beryl Rhodes, Mrs. Lorraine Harkless, Miss Frances Peterson and Mrs. Geraldine Mathias sang two charming numbers, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Jack.

An inspiring talk by Herbert D. Harris followed and then refreshments were served by Miss Dunkle and Miss VanLuvane.

Visitors' Day for National Education Week was observed last week with 123 guests at the school, and last night's program was in observance of the same event. Mr. Harris' talk on "Education for Victory" being the general theme of

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—While Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears led the aerial lead with a total of 91 completions in 158 attempts for 1,898 yards and 23 touchdowns.

Clark traveled 15 times with the ball to burn through the eastern defense for 81 yards, bringing his total gain for eight games this season to 465. This production enabled the veteran Bear halfback from West Virginia to replace his rival, Tony Canadeo, of the Green Bay Packers, in the No. 1 ball-carrying spot.

Canadeo, the former Gonzaga star who became top man in Green Bay's backfield this season with the departure of Cecil Isbell, fell into second place after being limited to 38 yards in eight attempts by the Chicago Cardinals Sunday.

His total gain in eight games is 424. Canadeo's running average per play, however, is better than Clark's—5.3 to 4.6.

Dante Magnani, another Bear, is third in rushing with 277 yards, but he has one of the best averages in the league, 6.8, and has made the longest single gain, 79 yards.

Luckman's feat of throwing seven touchdowns and officially gaining 433 yards on passes against the Giants both new records—kept him entrenched in the aerial lead with a total of 91 completions in 158 attempts for 1,898 yards and 23 touchdowns.

Although he has been sworn into the Merchant Marine, Luckman probably will be able to play out the season, including the championship playoff Dec. 19, before being called up.

He has two more league games, against the Washington Redskins Sunday and the Cardinals a week hence, in which to bid for two all-time records. Two more touchdowns passes will eclipse Isbell's mark of 24 last year, and 214 additional yards gained will top Isbell's 2,021, also made in 1942.

Sammy Baugh of Washington also has a fine chance to better Isbell's standards as well as surpassed Luckman before the season ends. He has four games to go and already has hit on 85 of 154 passes for 1,135 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Baugh's foot is becoming as famed as his arm. The 1942 punting king took over the lead this week after getting off 10 punts against Detroit for an average of 51.9 yards, including an 81-yard effort, the season's longest. This brought his average for 34 kicks for the season to 47.8.

Philadelphia Still Angles For Army-Navy Grid Contest

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A resolution asking that the traditional Army-Navy football game be played in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium instead of Michie Stadium, West Point, N. Y., is before congress today.

Rep. Francis Walter, Easton, Pa. Democrat, reopened the long fight yesterday when he offered the resolution for adoption by both houses and declared it to be "the sense and desire" that the game shall be played at Philadelphia and that all proceeds shall be given to the United Service Organizations.

The game has been scheduled for Nov. 27 at West Point, Michie Stadium seats approximately 12,000 while Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium holds more than 100,000. A capacity crowd at Philadelphia would net approximately $400,000.

The controversy over selection of a site for the game has been raging intermittently for months, with Sen. Meade (D-N. Y.) and John B. Kelly, U. S. director of recreation, having asked that it be scheduled in one of the east's major stadiums.

Until last year when the game was transferred to Annapolis because of wartime transportation conditions, the traditional battle had been played at Philadelphia for several years.

Letters Are Awarded Men Of Grid Squad

Announcement has been made that letters will be awarded by the High School Athletic Association to 14 for outstanding work during the past season on the football field. The Dragons this year won seven and lost four games but lost only one on the home grounds and that to Academy, of Erie, but dropped three games off the home range.

Youngsville, Oil City, Corry, Johnstown, Franklin and Falconer were taken by substantial scores but Erie Academy, Jamestown, Titusville and Ridgway proved too tough for the local lads.

However it is said that a little overconfidence cost a couple of the pastimes.

In the group winning letters are four who will return next year, Charles Adams, Mac Sirriani, Jay White and Larry Zobrest. These men were all outstanding on the team this past season, Sirriani being a standout and Zobrest a tough heavy man who could be counted on at all stages of the game while White and Adams were always in the game.

Those who will receive letters at some future Assembly in the High School in addition to the four named above are: Gust Arrigo (now in U. S. Service), Fred Beyron, Richard Black, Richard Carlson, Lawrence Daley, Charles McLean, Wayne Schneider, John Snyder, Gerald Vesting.

Cornell Loses Six Grid Men

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Cornell hopes of giving Penn a battle in their annual Thanksgiving Day clash at Philadelphia received a rude jolt with the announcement that six players, two of them regulars, have been lost through scholastic ineligibility.

The two starters are Grant Ellis, a guard who was a Penn frosh last year, and end Murdo MacDonald. Also lost are Charles Davidson, a tackle reserve, and quarterback Morton Rauff, end Bob Coll and wingback Alex Drogien.

They are navy and marine trainees.

Bainbridge Commodores May Be Denied Top Bill on Grid

Bainbridge, Md., Nov. 17.—(AP)—They may draw aside the curtain yet on that pile driver Bainbridge Naval Training football team, but trying to grab top Broadway billing for the classy Commodores has been as difficult as attempting a tight wire act with a broken leg.

Undeclared in seven games, and with one of the best scoring, offensive, defensive and passing records in the nation, Bainbridge announced today it was "definitely interested" in playing a war bond game in New York.

Bainbridge's roster would make any professional league coach completely happy, yet the Navy's ruling that trainee teams must play in their own district has stymied the Commodores' claim for grid greatness.

Lieut. Ralph H. Plumb of Bainbridge athletic office said he had asked for more information on the New York game following reports the opponent might be the Sampson Navy Club, but added the treasury department would have to get Navy Department sanction for the Commodores to leave their district.

Ex-college and professional stars that sparkle in Bainbridge's lineup have run up 313 points, their goal line has been crossed for only 7 points, and Coach Joe Maniaci says he's willing to play anyone, anywhere, any time for marbles or nothing.

Maniaci, a star at Fordham and later with the Chicago Bears, has employed the T formation with great success, and his array of flashy backs and ends has scored almost at will on nearly every opponent.

They include Bill De Correvont, Northwestern; Harvey Johnson, All-Southern fullback with William and Mary, who is now the east's leading scorer; Hilliard Cheatham of Auburn, a great passer and field general; Don Durand of Oregon State, who helped beat Duke in the Durham Rose Bowl two years ago; and Charlie Justice, who came straight from Asheville, N. C., high school to become one of the most talked of rookie halfbacks in years.

More Americans died from influenza and pneumonia during the epidemics of 1918-20 than were killed in World War I.

PENN BOWLING CENTER

Industrial League

The Forge Shop dumped the Paramount Furniture four points, just what all the other teams have failed to do and for the first time this year they have had their lead cut down to within striking distance to be over come by the Bab's Barbers. Zuerli's 548 and Cosmano's 545 led the scoring for the winners, Harold Clapper's 603 done the honors for the Paramount with Thomas' 212-570 led the scoring.

Bab's Barbers, with Bob Check turning in games of 199-216-215 and a 630 total, also high for the evening, and the Barbers setting a new team game high of 998 and missing high team total by one pin with 2529, took four points from the cellar team, the Butter Krusts. Harold Clapper's 603 done the honors for the Paramount with Thomas' 212-570 led the scoring.

United Cigar Store, paced by Walsh's 215-528 and Ryberg's 225-515 led the winners to four points from the Heat Treat. Randinelli's 528 led the losers.

Kinnear's topped the Crossetts for three points on Seaguit's 222-528 and Fielding's 211-566 while Dr. J. Giunta's 225-558 led the losers.

Art Pettitt, who last week scored three consecutive games of 168 each, last evening started his match with two more games of 168 each, making a total of five consecutive games of 168 in league bowling. His last game turned in 148. Quite an oddity for the local lanes.

Leros Capitulates To Nazis After a Heavy Bombarding

"The Japanese have suffered enough damage to important fleet units to give them cause for serious consideration of abandoning the base (Rabaul) as too hot to handle."

Gen. MacArthur said his airmen sank an 8,000-ton cargo ship and damaged another at Rabaul and caused the beaching of a 9,000-tonner on New Ireland. They destroyed 20 to 26 planes which raided Allied positions in the Ramu and Markham valley of New Guinea.

A spokesman for the general said his forces and material were insufficient for a large-scale offensive. He said MacArthur "has something less than 5 per cent of American military resources" (perhaps fewer than 400,000 of the 8,000,000 American troops under arms). The percentage of air resources "are even smaller."

Fall of Rabaul Nearing As Loss of Jap Ships Mounts

(From Page One)

The ground offensive on Bougainville also points toward Rabaul and major progress is being made there toward driving the Japanese from their last position in the Solomon Islands.

Military and naval observers all agree that Rabaul is an objective of the near future; some predict it will be in Allied hands by Christmas.

At noon Thursday, heads and executive boards of all local social agencies, those supported by the Community Chest and otherwise, will have a luncheon-meeting at the YWCA activities building and discuss advisability of forming a council of social agencies for the community.

MISSING IN ACTION

Word has been received by Joseph Scalise, 826 West Fifth avenue, that his son, Samuel Scalise, serving overseas, is missing in action. The advice came from the War Department and said the boy had been missing for a month. Sam is one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Scalise serving with the U. S. forces.

Social Events

LEGIONNAIRES WILL DANCE. Thanksgiving night, Nov. 25, Warren County Votive 941, Forty and Eight will hold a party at the Warren Legion Home. All Legionnaires in Warren County, their wives and invited guests are welcome. There have been very few county wide invitations in the last year or two so all members should attend and make this a real get-together.

There will be dancing and other amusements. Complete details will be available early next week.

Pre-War Dads May Not Get Into the Army

As approved by a joint committee, the legislation would strip the war manpower commission of all jurisdiction over administration of the selective service act, repeal the WMC non-deferrable occupation order, and generally permit the induction of pre-war fathers only after all available non-fathers have been called.

The legislation recognizes dependency as a prime factor in deferments by providing that pre-war fathers, regardless of occupation, shall not be called up while there are available anywhere in the state in which they live, or in the entire nation, non-fathers not deferred because of essential occupation or for other reasons.

To meet an administration objection, the legislation provides that the induction procedure be followed only insofar as it does not interfere with the orderly flow of manpower to the armed forces, the president to make the determination.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex), author of the original Kilday bill which the new legislation embodies in principle, said:

"This means that few, if any, fathers must go, since the quotas after December can be met largely from teen-age boys becoming of draft age."

Auxiliary Launches Campaign to Buy Planes

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Milton Witz presented their reports on the presidents' and secretaries' conference held at Harrisburg and the committee which visited Warren State Hospital on Armistice Day told of presenting cigarettes and candy to the veterans there.

Plans were discussed for the next meeting, December 14, when members will bring 25 gifts to be used in packing gift boxes for veterans. There was also announcement of the mother and daughter thirteen supper at six o'clock tomorrow evening at the Legion Home and all members were urged to join the juniors.

Subsidies Are Licked Say Some Leaders
